No Confirmation Dollar Pegged At Discount

OTTAWA (CP)—A check of responsible government officials, none of whom would be quoted on the situation, indicated today that little credence is placed on reports recurring in New York and Toronto that the Canadian dollar will be placed at a fixed discount of 5 per cent to the U.S. dollar.

It was stressed here that the government could neither confirm nor deny the reports, which have stimulated buying of gold shares on the Toronto Stock Exchange, without affecting the market. This is something the government wants to avoid. Any devaluation of the Canadian dollar raises the price of gold in Canada funds. The fixed price of gold in U.S. money is $35.

There appears to be a feeling in official circles here that the dollar reports have been circulated with the aim of forcing the government into making a statement on its position.

The hard fact of the matter is that if the government put the Canadian dollar at a discount it would mean the administration was back-tracking on the anti-inflation program instituted when the Canadian dollar was brought to par with the U.S. dollar five months ago.

PROTECTION NEEDED

Finance Minister Ilsley, in announcing the change, said at the time that one of the main reasons for it was a need to protect the Canadian economy against rising prices in the United States, where Canada has to buy many manufactured goods and raw materials. The placing of the dollar at par placed the Dominion in a better position to continue buying without having to pay the abnormal prices then making their appearances across the border.

The official feeling here is that if a stronger Canadian dollar was necessary at that time it is even more essential now that U.S. prices have advanced far beyond their June levels. A downward adjustment of the Canadian dollar at this time would weaken the Canadian economic position rather than strengthen it.

Revaluation of the dollar is a matter of high government policy and is decided by the cabinet rather than by the Exchange Control Board, which merely administers the policy.

Building Materials Not Warehoused in City, Howe Says

In answer to a telegram from the Business Trade and Re-establishment Committee of the City Council which requested that scarce building materials stored in local warehouses be released, Hon. C. D. Howe, minister of reconstruction, today said there are "no materials frozen in warehouses."

He assured the committee that veterans homes 50 per cent or more completed are eligible for priority assistance, but there are no priorities available for civilians.

Mr. Howe also said that "priorities officer order prohibits purchasing for delivery more than 30 days before date the building materials are required for use, also prohibits purchase of more materials than are required to complete project for which rating was assigned."

He said it is "impossible to act on general statements, and upon receipt from you of specific cases of frozen inventories stock piling in non compliance with priorities officer regulations we will take whatever action necessary to put surplus materials into immediate use for completion of homes for veterans in your city."

47 Given Sentences

LONDON (Reuter)—Only one of 48 prosecutions for alleged "black market building" in Britain failed during July and August of this year, it was stated in the House of Commons today.

British War Bride Stranded in Halifax

A bewildered newcomer to Canada from Britain, Mrs. Albert Martin is in Halifax searching for her husband, a former corporal in the Canadian army. Shown above with her two children, Allan and Frances, Mrs. Martin plans to stay in Canada whether her husband is found or not. Since her arrival in Canada a third child, David, has died, and she is desperately hoping her husband will turn up to look after his family. It is thought Mr. Martin may have stowed away on a freighter out of Halifax in an effort to rejoin his family before it arrived in Canada.

U.S. Voters Troop To Polls In First Postwar Elections

NEW YORK (CP)—People of the United States journeyed to the polls today in a national election, free for the first time since 1938 to vote as they wish without thought of its effect on the country's safety in a world at war.

In this "off year" election the main question to be answered is whether the Democrats will hold their slender majorities in the Senate and House of Representatives, or the Republicans gain control of Congress for the first time since 1930.

The margin of control is so slight in the House that the

Good Herring Run At Last Reported

NANAIMO (CP)—Fisheries Supervisor J. F. Tait reported today herring fishermen have at last got their nets into really good runs in lower Gulf Island waters, particularly in the Swanson Channel area. Nightly catches, he said, are proving sufficient to keep the canneries running to capacity. Chum salmon runs on east and west coasts of Vancouver Island are also good.

Judge Resigns

OTTAWA (CP)—A Justice Department spokesman said today that the resignation of Mr. Justice Robert M. Dennistoun as a judge of the Manitoba Court of Appeal had been accepted.

Less Butter Rumored

VANCOUVER (CP)—Possibility of a reduction in the butter ration to four ounces a week was reported by dealers here today following announcement that wholesalers had put retail customers on a "strict" quota because of low production, aggravated by the recent prairie farm strike.

Back To Prison

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Gordon Thompson, 23-year-old native of Winnipeg, was sentenced today to seven years in the Kingston Penitentiary for the armed hold-up of the Empire Theatre here Oct. 26. He had been released from the western penitentiary in October, 1945.

Yuletide Fare

LONDON (CP)—Food Minister John Strachey promised Britons today an old-fashioned Christmas dinner with turkeys, fruit puddings—and sweets for the children. He told a press conference that, effective Dec. 8, the weekly butter ration would be increased from two to three ounces, but that a corresponding cut would be made in margarine.

Housing Project Wins Approval Despite Protests

The business trade and re-establishment committee will recommend to Tuesday's City Council meeting that the project of Housing Enterprises Ltd. to build 104 houses in the area south of Tolmie Avenue and west of Quadra Street be approved, subject to "execution of an agreement in terms satisfactory to the city's legal department," Ald. B. J. Gadsden, chairman, announced following a meeting.

The committee is also recommending that an additional 50 wartime houses for veterans be constructed, but that no building on this second project be started for 90 days, to give partially-completed veterans' homes an opportunity to get materials.

The decision was made after a statement had been received from Housing Enterprises of Canada regarding the priorities the company was given for building materials. This letter, signed by W. L. Inglis, district manager, gave assurance that the materials to be used in the 104 rental homes "will not involve a reduction in any quotas of materials being allocated to your city."

PROVIDE HOUSING QUICK

The committee has decided to recommend approval of the Housing Enterprises project, despite the objections of members of the Builders' Exchange that the building of these houses would handicap the completion of other homes which will provide "quickly decent, comfortable homes for our population," Ald. Gadsden said.

The committee will recommend that a letter be sent to the Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Reconstruction, asking that some of the priorities rulings be clarified. Ald. Gadsden said that in a tour of building supply houses Monday the committee had found that there was a great deal of misunderstanding about the order in which priorities were to be granted for the scarce materials.

Offers To Tell Story Of Fraud

NEW YORK (AP)—William A. Nickel, former $100-a-week book-keeper-cashier of the Mergenthaler Linotype Co., arrived here today from Florida in the custody of detectives and was taken immediately to the King's County district attorney's office for questioning in the alleged embezzlement of nearly $900,000 from the firm.

Nickel, who was arrested in Miami on a fugitive warrant, was quoted by authorities as saying he would reveal "the whole story" of the alleged fraud.

Police, meantime, studied canceled cheques and searched bank vaults in an effort to piece together the complete story of the alleged fraud.

50-Year-Old Unemployed Present Problem For Victoria Office

A serious unemployment situation involving men of 50 years of age and over, is prevailing in Victoria, according to C. A. Mudge, manager of the National Employment Service office.

Seventy-five per cent of the applicants for unemployment insurance are men over 55 years of age and at the moment there is little prospect of finding jobs for them, Mr. Mudge says.

The majority of men seeking jobs are men, who due to their age or ill-health, are not capable of doing heavy manual labor, but are fit for light labor or clerical work, he said.

"This type of unemployed is causing us deep concern as more and more men are applying every day for light jobs due to ill-health," he said. "The problem is what are we going to do with them when they have drawn all their insurance benefits."

SCARCITY OF LIGHT JOBS

Mr. Mudge said that he believed Victoria was worse off than any other centre in Canada with regard to unemployment of

Pacific Maritime Strike Still On; 1 Issue Settled

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—One critical issue in the 36-day U.S. west coast maritime strike was settled Monday night, but both sides agreed today no immediate return to work was in prospect. Dr. Nathan P. Feinsinger, special U.S. labor department mediator, declared optimistically however, that groundwork had been laid for final agreements not only with the C.I.O. longshoremen but also with the A.F.L. Masters, Mates and Pilots and the C.I.O. Marine Engineers.

"We are not at all discouraged," he said. "We have accomplished our purpose."

SEE NEW ISSUES

The striking longshoremen were not so optimistic. They charged the waterfront employees had injected four "new issues" into the negotiations—"issues which they previously had agreed to arbitrate."

The Committee for Maritime Unity said the strike had been settled sufficiently for a resumption of work, but that the employers had turned the walkout into a lockout by raising these issues and by demanding the union drop its $6,000,000 suit for retroactive back pay.

But settlement of the so-called steam schooner issue was considered by both sides as a definite step toward truce. Both sides agreed to leave

Many Vessels Unseaworthy; Leaders Freed

HAIFA (AP)—British naval intelligence officers asserted today that at least 100 ships, many paid for with money raised in North America, have been purchased by Jewish underground organizations to carry refugee immigrants from Europe to Palestine.

Officers said they had a list of 100 ships, "most of them unseaworthy," which had been bought for the refugee traffic and which now are lying in southern European ports.

Methods of halting the unauthorized immigration of Jewish refugees to Palestine will be discussed this week at Malta at a conference of naval authorities under Admiral Sir Algernon Willis, commander-in-chief of the British Mediterranean Fleet. It is expected Palestine police will be represented.

Five officers of the Palestine police force's criminal investigation division Monday flew to Rome to help investigate the recent blasting of the British Embassy in the Italian capital, which a "communique" purportedly distributed by Irgun Zavi Leumi, said had been perpetrated by that Jewish underground organization.

Called Bombing Opening Of Front

The "communique" said the Embassy was "a centre of anti-Jewish intrigue" and that the bombing represented "the opening of the Jewish military front."

After completing their work in Rome, the Palestine police officers are expected to join the Malta conference.

Naval intelligence officers said the main ports in which refugee ships now are lying are Marseille, Genoa, Trieste and Piraeus.

"Some of these ships are death trap caiques and schooners bought from junk yards, but there are a few converted corvettes, sloops and Hungarian river gunboats," the officers added.

One source said the crews and officers of the vessels in many cases were men "who have lost their papers in one way or another and will sail with this type of ship because that's all they can get."

"We've uncovered instances in which they were paid $20 a head when they sail and were promised the same amount more if they could land the passengers successfully on Palestine's shores," this source declared.

Many Jews, Arabs Freed By British

LONDON (Reuter)—The British government has decided to authorize Palestine authorities to release detained Jewish leaders in the Holy Land, Colonial Secretary Jones announced in the House of Commons today.

Release of certain detained Arabs also has been approved, he added.

Mr. Jones hoped the releases would lead to an improvement of security in Palestine and would restore conditions in which progress could be made towards a "general settlement."

Mr. Jones told Oliver Stanley, former Conservative Colonial Secretary, that he could give him complete assurance that no one was included among the leaders to be released against whom "active complicity in any terrorist outrage" could be proved in a court of law.

Mr. Stanley also asked whether the Colonial Secretary would make it plain these releases were not the result of any "bargain," but were decided on by the government because they thought it was the best course for security in Palestine.

Mr. Jones replied that law and order were no matters to be bargained about.

Arabs Open Fire On Jewish Village

JERUSALEM (Reuter)—Arab villagers opened fire on Jewish settlers at Masuoth Itzhak in the hills south of Jerusalem today, but when Jewish auxiliary police fired in the air, the Arabs dispersed.

Two Jews were slightly injured by stones thrown by the Arabs.

The attack was the second in three days by Arabs upon Jewish settlers. The Masuoth Itzhak settlement was established a few months ago. The Arabs claim they have rights on the lands which was being ploughed by Jews.

School Problem For Children In Camps

The problem of finding school accommodation for the children moving into the Tillicum and Macaulay army camps is a trying one for the Greater Victoria School Board, faced with the same building material and labor shortages as everyone else.

J. F. K. English, municipal inspector of schools, said today that it was doubtful if the schools nearest the camps could accommodate any more children, but that "some way will have to be found to ensure schooling for the children living there."

The Citizens' Rehabilitation Council has set aside huts to be converted into schoolrooms for the children, but the school board will have to undertake the conversion, find heating equipment and provide the necessary teachers.

"The question will be taken in hand as early as possible," Mr. English said, "although we can do little with the problem until we know exactly how many children we will have to look after."

Mayhew To Ottawa To Help Ilsley

R. W. Mayhew, Victoria M.P. and parliamentary assistant to Finance Minister J. L. Ilsley, has returned to Ottawa at the request of Mr. Ilsley.

Mr. Mayhew will help out in departmental work. He is expected to be away until the end of the month.

3 Western Provinces To Meet Nov. 3 To Talk Freight Rates

Preparation for British Columbia's battle for equalization of freight rates will be in full swing within a day or so.

Premier John Hart this afternoon announced Public Works Minister E. C. Carson would represent him at a meeting Nov. 13 of representatives of the governments of British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba at which joint action on freight rates would be discussed. British Columbia, Alberta and Saskatchewan, Mr. Hart indicated, were seeking equalization of freight rates. Manitoba, he indicated, would send a representative "who will not be in sympathy with elimination of mountain rates but will be opposed to higher rates."

Mr. Hart also indicated that within a day or so he would announce the appointment of an assistant counsel to C. H. Locke, K.C., of Vancouver, who is preparing British Columbia's case.

While British Columbia is opposed to the mountain rates, the government is not opposed to a reasonable increase in freight rates.

Mr. Hart also said he hoped the test case to determine whether or not the provincial government could tax E. & N. Railway lands would be ready for presentation to the Court of Appeal at the fall sitting.

Question Secrecy Of R.C.A.F. Papers Kept By Suspect

OTTAWA (CP)—Evidence as to the nature of R.C.A.F. documents found in the Montreal apartment of the accused was given by the last of four crown witnesses today in the espionage trial of Matt Simons Nightingale, former squadron leader.

Wing Cmdr. George Fawcett of Air Force Headquarters said one of them would be valuable to the public; another, a booklet on communications lines, was only for official use and the accused was not entitled to retain it; a third, a pamphlet on construction engineering, was unclassified as to secrecy.

Defence counsel Royden Hughes subjected the witness to lengthy cross-examination, particularly on a memo Nightingale prepared on the Pacific coast communications system.

Wing Cmdr. Fawcett said that although the memo was not marked, it should have been marked secret. It would be useful to any foreign power "interested in the communications facilities in Canada."

The accused would not be entitled to keep it, although there was a good reason why he should want to, said the witness. It consisted of a criticism of the coast program and was prepared for a superior officer who, Fawcett said, was in the habit of getting better-informed subordinates to prepare reports, then tearing them up and using the material as his own.

The court was then adjourned to permit Mr. Hughes to have a more extensive look at R.C.A.F. files on the coast program.

Renowned Astronomer Hurt In Fall From Dome

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Dr. Alfred H. Joy, 64, internationally-known astronomer, was in a serious condition today, following a fall in the big dome of the Mt. Wilson Observatory's 100-inch telescope.

"He is still in a daze, and cannot tell exactly what happened," reported his wife.

Dr. Joy suffered two arm fractures and a left leg fracture when he fell from the observatory platform to a concrete tier 20 feet below, as he made midnight, pitch-dark calculations in connection with his life work of charting and photographing the Milky Way. A giant crane, employed heretofore only for moving heavy pieces of astronomical equipment, was used to lower him to a waiting ambulance.

8 Lives Claimed By Colorado's Worst Storm In 35 Years

DENVER (AP)—A snowstorm which swept into the Rocky Mountain region Saturday and gave Denver and Colorado its worst winter lashing in 35 years, was moving southward today, gradually lessening in intensity.

Weather bureau forecasters said snow had spread north last night to Cheyenne and Laramie, Wyoming, but that it was spending itself as it moved southward across the New Mexican border.

Eight deaths were attributed directly or indirectly to the storm. In Denver, where the storm for a time centred, streets were packed with deep snow and transportation facilities strained to the utmost.

Elsewhere in the state highway travel was all but suspended, eastbound trains were delayed and truck travel halted.

Many rural precincts may have an extremely light vote because of inability to get to the general election polls today.

Of the eight deaths recorded, four occurred in Denver when persons attempted to start cars stalled in deep drifts.

In the midst of the storm twin boys were born to a Denver woman whose physician could not arrive because of the weather. Her husband assisted at the births.

Officials of the Great Western Sugar Company said about 75 per cent of the beet crop had been harvested in northern Colorado, and that in areas where the crop still is in the ground beets were safe unless a prolonged cold snap set in.

Cattle on the open range, where the storm swept in on light winds Saturday, probably will suffer from shrinkage, stockmen said.

Ex-Railway Board Chief Dies In Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—Dr. Simon James McLean, assistant chief commissioner of the Board of Railway Commissioners from 1918 to 1938, died in a hospital here today after a long illness. He was 75.

Since his retirement in 1938 Dr. McLean had served as technical adviser to the Board of Transport Commissioners for Canada. He was a former associate professor of political economy at the University of Toronto.

Man Shot 3 Hours Before Wedding

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP)—Her wedding gown packed away, 18-year-old Viola Sutherland temporarily forgot the wedding vows she was to have taken at 7 o'clock Monday night. Instead of getting married, the bride-to-be spent the evening sitting on a bench in a hospital corridor.

In a nearby room lay her fiancé, his left arm shattered by shotgun pellets three hours before the ceremony. As she waited for news of his condition she expressed the hope the wedding might be performed at the hospital, "if he will still have me," for police said it was Miss Sutherland's brother John who fired the shotgun at the prospective groom.

Hospital authorities today said William Good's condition was "satisfactory." At first it was thought they would have to amputate his arm.

Meanwhile, the 32-year-old Sutherland was arraigned in police court today on an intent to maim charge. He was remanded until next Tuesday.

"My brother John apparently thought he was my boss and all my life he has been telling me what to do," Miss Sutherland said.

She said her brother had objected not only to her having boy friends but tried to segregate her from other girls as well.

PM To Take Ads, Ingersoll Quits

NEW YORK (AP)—Marshall Field, publisher of PM, announced Monday the newspaper for the first time in its six years would accept advertising, and said that Ralph Ingersoll had resigned as editor because of the policy change.

John P. Lewis, now managing editor, will succeed Mr. Ingersoll, and Max Lerner will be chief editorial writer.

Mr. Field said plans were under way to set up an advertising department; but no date was announced when advertising would start in the left-wing daily.

Mr. Ingersoll in his letter of resignation said:

"No advertising in PM is woven into the fabric of my conception of the paper and my conviction remains unshaken that there should be at least one mass newspaper in this country supported solely by its readers."

In accepting Mr. Ingersoll's resignation, Mr. Field replied: "Indeed in the light of PM's established character, I cannot help feeling that there is more potential danger to PM's independence so largely depends on whether one man desires to support it than could possibly arise from accepting support from the advertisers of the community... its permanence can only be assured if it is self-supporting."

Condemned Couple Appeals In Vain

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Appeal Court today dismissed an appeal by George Popowich and his wife of Welland, Ont., against a Sept. 12 conviction of murdering Louis Noto, South Thorold merchant. Chief Justice Robert S. Robertson, at the same time, reprieved the condemned couple, originally sentenced to be hanged Nov. 12, to Dec. 5.

A defence plea to introduce new evidence was quashed Monday when the court refused permission to counsel A. T. Whitehead to introduce an affidavit which he said would contradict death-bed statements of Noto and exonerate Mrs. Popowich.

Nato died June 21 of a beating allegedly inflicted by the Popowichs as he was driving on a Niagara Falls road near South Thorold. A sum of money had been taken, police said.

Do You Need To Watch Your Diet?

Too often, as people approach middle life, they get heavy around the waistline—the result of too much rich, fatty food and not enough exercise. This is a "danger period"—when steps should be taken to relieve a system clogged with toxic waste.

By taking all-vegetable Bile Beans nightly, many keep fit and trim despite a love for rich food. This favourite British remedy is so mild and effective, it has often been called "The Remedy that Wakes Up Nature". Bile Beans are the largest-selling liver pills in Great Britain—over 7 million boxes used last year. Resolve now to escape the penalty of middle age—get BILE BEANS from your druggist today.

Tim Buck To Speak On U.B.C. Campus

VANCOUVER (CP)—Officials of the University of British Columbia announced Monday night that Tim Buck, leader of the Labor Progressive Party, will speak on the campus in the near future, but that he will not be sponsored by the Social Problems Club.

Canada Presented In Magazine As Land Of Myriad Opportunities

NEW YORK (CP)—Canada, the land with everything but enough people to take advantage of her myriad opportunities, was presented to United States readers today under the flattering title: "Why it's easy to get rich in Canada."

The heart-warming article on the 20th century's land of opportunity is featured in the December issue of the American Magazine, published today. Its author, Hawthorne Daniel, 56-year-old natural history expert and writer, says "more opportunities of various kinds are to be found there (in Canada) now than in any other land on earth."

The article records statistics familiar to most Canadians on the country's vast size, agricultural resources, industrial output and potential, and lays special emphasis on her pulp and paper and her sprawling, sprawling, $1,000,000,000 mining industry.

"The war did so many things to the country that even yet a good many Canadians don't quite know what has happened," says Mr. Daniel.

"To the astonishment even of many Canadians, this lightly populated land, which has fewer people than the state of New York, became during the war the second largest exporting nation in the world. She has expanded her industries until they are exceeded today only by those of the United States, Great Britain, and perhaps the U.S.S.R."

Mr. Daniel, a native of Norfolk, Neb., who now lives in Tuckahoe, N.Y., commenting on Canadian mining and especially the future of nickel and silver, says:

"Ontario is the great Canadian producer now, but that may not always be the case. The Northwest Territories are three times the size of Ontario and as yet they are hardly developed at all. The more recently discovered deposits (of iron ore) of Ungava, and of Labrador may prove more important to Canada than any other single source of mineral wealth. They were shown to consist of ore that runs as high as 64 per cent iron."

The author quotes Roy H. Thomson of Toronto, newspaper and radio station owner: "Every man in Canada has a chance to make a fortune."

"All she needs is people," sums up Mr. Daniel.

First To Have Eye Transplanted Visitor Tomorrow

One of the first people to experience the successful transplanting of the cornea from the eye of a dead person to that of a living, Dr. U. E. Harding of Pasadena, Calif., will visit Victoria tomorrow.

Before the operation, Dr. Harding was almost blind as a result of childhood accidents, but now he can see fairly well from the eye with the transplanted cornea.

By the time he was 15 he was almost totally blind, and in 1939 he could barely distinguish between light and dark.

His wife read of an operation performed in San Francisco similar to the one finally done on Dr. Harding, and made arrangements with the doctor to have it done if they could get a cornea.

When Mrs. Margaret Carr of Berkeley, Calif., died, she bequeathed the cornea from one of her eyes to the minister and the operation was performed by the late Dr. Aaron Green of San Francisco.

Pharmacy School Opened At U.B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP)—A dinner on the opening of the new University of British Columbia pharmacy school was held Monday night and Education Minister Weir told faculty members "no premier ever did as much for university education as John Hart has done for the University of British Columbia."

The minister referred to Dean E. L. Woods, head of the new school, as "a first-class, progressive man" and said there were 100 jobs waiting for 69 pharmacy students in the school.

J. Sheldon Spurr, associate president, expressed thanks to the government and university for setting up the school and made special mention of President N. A. M. MacKenzie's aid in providing accommodation—two converted military huts—for the school.

News Of The Island

Cassidy Airport May Become Emergency Base For Planes

NANAIMO—This east-central port may eventually become a main air terminus between the mainland and the island with the inauguration Nov. 2, of two round flights per day between Nanaimo and Vancouver.

C.P. Airlines officials announced that two 14-passenger planes will operate from Cassidy Airport to Vancouver—and that the airport may also be used as an emergency base for all C.P.A. planes.

The 14-passenger planes may be replaced next spring by 28-passenger craft and additional flights arranged if the service proves popular, it was announced.

C.P.A. is now encountering difficulties in finding suitable terminus buildings and facilities for the new air service and have conferred with the City Council airport committee on the matter. C.P.A. has requested the use of certain premises for waiting rooms and offices as well as accommodation for the staff.

G. A. Barber, B.C. district traffic manager C.P.A., announced that a radio tower would be installed at the Cassidy terminus in order to provide planes with weather information. He said this might lead to the airport being used as an emergency base for all C.P.A. planes who are unable to land in Vancouver due to poor weather conditions.

Twenty minutes will be the flying time between Cassidy Airport to Vancouver. The planes will leave Cassidy at 9:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. and will depart from Vancouver at 9 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Wardens Puzzled By Roosting Ducks

NANAIMO—Every year R. A. Peterson, Island Highway farmer, scratched his head and wondered at what he saw—ducks roosting on his oak trees.

Aware of the fact that ducks take to trees as often as chickens take to water, Mr. Peterson decided this fall to identify the tree-roosting ducks.

He shot a few and found the birds to be widegeon, between teal and mallard in size, whose habitat is fresh water marshes and sloughs. Investigation revealed that the widegeon had gorged themselves on acorns from the trees.

All this was new to Mr. Peterson, and he kept his secret until visited by game wardens F. Weir and G. Lines, who also were puzzled.

However, the fact that widegeon have gone in for tree-roosting is now surprising to ornithologists. They say it is not uncommon for birds or animals for that matter to change their eating habits when faced with a food shortage.

Geneva Reconsidered As U.N. Headquarters

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y. (AP)—A new move to take the United Nations' headquarters palace at Geneva has loomed as a possibility in the U.N. Assembly.

U.N. sources said Russia, which once vigorously opposed Geneva and anything connected with the old league as a home for the United Nations, was ready to ask the Assembly to consider the Swiss city among the possible headquarters sites.

These sources added the Russian position crystallized when it became known the United States delegation, finally abandoning its neutrality on the home issue, had asked the Assembly to put the home-site offers of New York City and San Francisco up for debate by the delegates of the 51 countries.

Delivery Service Of Mail Sought By Duncan Chamber

DUNCAN—The director of postal services in Vancouver has replied to a letter sent by the Duncan Chamber of Commerce requesting that additional postal collection boxes be placed in the city, according to A. Hall, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

The letter stated the department would take into consideration the recommendations for installation of collection boxes near the hospital and at the junction of Marchmont and Trunk Road.

Mr. Hall also said the chamber was still hoping to obtain mail delivery in Duncan. He said some people had to walk more than a mile to collect their letters at the post office.

The business turnover, he said, warranted a mail delivery service.

West Coast May Get Air Service

PORT ALBERNI—There is talk in this west coast city that a new passenger and freight service may be established to serve the west coast as far north as Zeballos.

The air service may be established next year to serve the mills and camps as well as the small gold mining communities, which have been growing in size during the past year.

It is pointed out that due to the lack of roads along the west coast, the only possible way to move goods in and out was by water and air service.

Lord Portman Dies

LONDON (Reuter)—Death of the Sixth Viscount Portman at his home in his native Dorset was announced here Monday night. He was 78. The Portman estates in London rank second only to those of the Duke of Westminster. Together they were popularly called "Little America" during the war because of United States club and government offices in the area.

Victorian Passes Medical Examination

OTTAWA (CP)—Thirty candidates were successful in Medical Council of Canada examinations held at Edmonton last month, Dr. J. Fenton Argue, registrar, announced Monday.

The list includes the following from B.C.: Walter R. Duncan, Victoria; Glenn D. Fraser, New Westminster; Robert S. Fraser, Kootenay Bay; Norman T. Bennett, Vancouver; Anthony A. Larsen, Cloverdale; Douglas G. R. Mathias, Vancouver; Alvin W. Mooney, Port Crawford; Raymond M. Rice, Albion; Stewart A. Strachan, Vancouver.

Victoria Bond Sales Now At $5,000,000

Sale of Canada Savings Bonds has almost reached the $5,000,000 mark in Victoria, and Nanaimo has now passed $400,000. In Port Alberni almost $200,000 worth of bonds has been sold.

The provincial total B.C. is now $42,003,700, with weekly payroll figures at $6,891,050. Payroll canvassing will cease tomorrow. University of B.C. students have purchased more than $300,000 worth of the savings bonds.

Cost Of Living Up 1.3 In October

OTTAWA (CP)—The cost-of-living index rose from 125.5 Sept. 3 to 126.8 Oct. 1 and the 1.3-point increase was largely due to higher milk prices, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reports.

The food index increase was from 143.2 to 146.5 and the rent index increase from 112.6 to 113.4. Other increases: Fuel and light, 107.2 to 107.3; clothing, 129.6 to 130.2; home furnishings and services, 128.4 to 128.8. Miscellaneous items remained unchanged at 113.9.

THE EVER-PRESENT VETO

NOTHING SO FAR SAID IN THE GENERAL Assembly of the United Nations in New York suggests that a full-dress debate on the use, or abuse, of the veto may be regarded as a certainty. It is now, as it always has been, a ticklish question because the Soviet Union has manifested not the slightest intention of relinquishing her prerogative. Which is almost certain to mean that nothing will be done about it. Both the United States and Great Britain would be responsive to limiting the application of the veto; but it is scarcely likely that either would support any plea for its abandonment. How France and China would act if a really active campaign were launched against continuance of this Charter privilege is problematical. Neither is in a very advantageous position to line up against the Russian point of view. So the Battle of the Veto, now in its fourth round, will provide a good deal of rhetoric but little action.

It is correct to call this the fourth round of the battle; it began at Dumbarton Oaks, was carried over to San Francisco, and then to London for the first meeting of the General Assembly. And while he is under no illusion about the prospects of change in the veto clause of the Charter, Mr. James Reston, young and able New York Timesman who has attended all these successive gatherings, put the debate in proper perspective in the following comments:

"The feeling against the veto is great because the veto is a symbol of the inequality and nationalism of sovereign states. But the veto did not create that inequality or nationalism, and its abolition at this time would not remove them. Therefore, if the debate on the veto is to be fruitful or even intelligible, it must be seen not only in relation to the ideal but in relation to the national habits and prejudices which produced the veto in the first place and which unfortunately still exist."

Apart from the fact that the "Big Five" declare that it was they who conceived the peace, that they have special and unequal responsibilities and must therefore have special authority, the fact remains that the real complaint of the middle and small nations is not that the basic assumption of the United Nations was wrong, or that the special authority of the veto should not have been granted in serious cases, but that the promises of the "Big Five" and even some of their treaty obligations have not been carried out. They have failed to achieve that unity which, after all, was the root and branch of the compact. In the recent Peace Conference in Paris, for example, the line of demarcation between the Slavic bloc and the western democracies became more evident than ever. But this is not to say compromises will not be reached in New York.

Veto or no veto, however, this prerogative of the "Big Five" is the most popular topic of conversation at each succeeding international conference. But, as Mr. Reston observes, "talking about it will not make small powers into big powers." Nor will it remove the fact that like those Canadians who want price control on what they buy but no price control on what they sell, most of the big powers are against the veto authority only as it is used by the other fellow.

GEOLOGICAL SURVEYS

SINCE THE ROYAL CANADIAN AIR Force is the only organization with the essential equipment and adequate planes, Hon. R. C. MacDonald, British Columbia's Minister of Mines, suggested to the Dominion government at the recent conference of provincial officials that its young aviators be entrusted with the job of aerial photography and geological mapping—and thus combine defence requirements with the necessary technical business associated with the development of natural resources. To support his argument, Mr. MacDonald pointed out to the federal officials in Ottawa that, under the Terms of Union, the Dominion government assumed responsibility for maintaining geological surveys in British Columbia. And he urged the placement of at least 13 such parties in this province—with the requisite expert personnel.

Many young men of the R.C.A.F. would doubtless jump at the chance to supplement their more or less routine training with such tasks as would open up to them new vistas of opportunity on their return to civilian life. It is one thing to read about the natural resources of this or other provinces of the Dominion, and another matter altogether to see and photograph a vast area of unexplored wealth and acquire a knowledge of its meaning. For this reason, therefore, it is to be hoped Mr. MacDonald's proposal will impress the practical mind at Ottawa.

IMPERIAL DEFENCE

THE DEBATE ON IMPERIAL DEFENCE in the British House of Commons began as an explanation of a policy directed toward better co-ordination of the Navy, Army and Air Forces and ended in a theoretical discussion of the position of the United Kingdom in relation to the Dominions and to the United Nations.

Under present circumstances it would seem the only practical method of approach to the problem is to assume that the United Kingdom has specific obligations which can be indexed, and to supply a highly-trained cohesive personnel, adequately equipped, to meet those obligations. To define in what manner each of the Dominions desires to be related to these obligations and integrated with the forces assigned for specific purposes, is impossible until the Dominions have themselves decided their responsibilities. The British General Staff can and does consult with the Dominion staffs and designate what is required, but the various Parliaments have to acquiesce in any action taken to meet the design.

The problem has now been complicated by the suggestion for disarmament made by Mr. Molotov before the United Nations and accepted by the United States, provided that international authority is given for inspection. Britain is proceeding on the adage of "keep your powder dry."

IMPORTANT APPOINTMENT

THE POLITICAL FORTUNES WHICH RELIEVED Mr. Francis Michael Forde of his parliamentary duties in Australia, as the result of last month's elections, bear promise of bringing to Canada one of the outstanding personalities of that Commonwealth in the role of High Commissioner. When the former cabinet member, one-time acting Prime Minister, and leader of Australia's delegation to the San Francisco conference of the United Nations, will reach this country to assume his new duties has yet to be announced. But the Dominion, happy as it has been in its association with other distinguished representatives from that land, will await the event with more than average interest.

Active in the public life of his homeland for the last 30 years, Mr. Forde has enjoyed an enviable place among spokesmen of that outspoken nation in international matters. His most recent appointment follows a career which has given him an almost unrivalled background in the affairs of the Australian Labor Party. As one of the late Prime Minister John Curtin's most able lieutenants, he fell naturally into the post of Acting Prime Minister on the latter's death and served in that capacity until the government chose Mr. Joseph B. Chifley to succeed the man who had given unstintingly of his energies to weld his nation together in its time of peril. It is not unusual that the vagaries of a post-war election should have deprived Mr. Forde of his seat. Canadians will find satisfaction in the addition to the ranks of distinguished emissaries to this country of this outstanding citizen of our sister Dominion.

PRACTICAL APPROACH

IT IS UNFORTUNATELY THE CASE that British Columbia high school and college courses in foreign languages have only infrequently given a student fluency in an alien tongue. They have not been without value in bringing home to the youth who studied them some of the niceties of grammar and construction in English. But in providing a vehicle for communication with those of other countries they have largely failed. The student, having acquired the credits provided by the prescribed course, figuratively rolls it up with the old exercise books and more often than not relegates it to the limbo.

In appreciation of these apparent shortcomings, it will be interesting to note any improvement which may emerge here from the current United States university trend toward a more "direct approach" to foreign language instruction. That system is making headway in several American colleges where the influence of army methods is being felt. The technique does not, of course, justify some of the exaggerated claims for it. There is no way to master French in a twinkling. But if the accent is placed on creating facilities for conversation and less on abstruse constructions, the development may be exceptionally valuable from a practical point of view. It is an element worth noting in this section of Canada where bilingualism is more a source of irritation than an invitation to understanding.

HELPFUL GESTURE

OF PARTICULAR INTEREST TO Britain's Foreign Secretary Bevin and to the British public in general was the announcement in New York yesterday by United States Secretary of State Byrnes that in future he would handle the Palestine problem for his country instead of President Truman. This suggests a new willingness to help Great Britain work out with the Jews and Arabs a solution to the problem confronting the Holy Land. To say that such an announcement will be welcomed everywhere, even in the lands most directly involved, is to underestimate the significance and importance of the Washington statesman's news.

Only the other day Mr. Byrnes announced in public that he agreed with Mr. Truman's American policy for the Holy Land. So far as the outside world knows, moreover, the President's demand for the earliest possible influx of 100,000 Jews into Palestine has undergone no change. Both the statement from the chief executive and its endorsement by the Secretary of State, however, were obviously meant for political purposes. By no stretch of the imagination, on the other hand, could yesterday's development be regarded as a last minute effort to impress the American voter. Rather must it be considered as a genuine gesture of helpfulness to Britain.

Regardless of the Byrnes dictum, and it will be considered at its face value, this complex problem will never be solved unless all those nations—particularly the United States—which give their advice so liberally are determined to contribute their share toward meeting the urgent requirements of continental Jewry and those countless tens of thousands of displaced persons who desire to find homes where democracy is still a living force.

Walter Lippmann

A VOICE FROM THE GRANDSTAND

MR. BYRNES at his press conference on Thursday said, referring to a critical article of mine which had been published that morning, that it was the easiest thing he knew of to sit in the grandstand and throw bottles at the pitcher. I am sorry if he feels that way about it. For the last thing I would wish to do is to make more difficult his prodigiously difficult task.

I had supposed, however, that in the United States at least we believed that critical discussion was not only a legal right but on the whole useful in the formation of policy, that it is not an exhibition of rowdiness, like throwing bottles at the pitcher, and that the press and the people who sit in the grandstand are not there simply to cheer when the cheer-leader wags his arms.

THE CRITICISM which Mr. Byrnes was dealing with was an argument that it was not possible to make a good and workable settlement in eastern Europe separately from a European and global settlement. Mr. Byrnes appears to feel that because it has been so difficult to reach agreement in one region, namely in eastern Europe, it is silly to suppose that it would have been any easier to reach simultaneous and general agreements in a broader negotiation.

But I submit that there is nothing silly about this, and that if he will study the history of any of the great peace conferences, he will find that successful statesmen have always recognized that where there were many difficult issues, none could be settled separately, that only in a general settlement could any of them be settled.

There is a reason for this. In any one region and on any one issue, some powers are stronger and have a greater stake than others. If the negotiation is confined to one region, the power with the stronger position is able to refuse an agreement except on its own terms. But if the negotiation is broadened to include several regions, then the situation becomes different. The powers which were weak in the first region are strong in the others.

IN A GENERAL negotiation, therefore, all have something to give and all have something to ask, and this is what induces them to find a basis for agreement. In any negotiation, and particularly in international negotiation, the way to resolve a deadlock over one issue is to raise other issues.

The United States recent experience in dealing with the Soviet Union is a good illustration of this point. There have been signs in the past few weeks—notably Stalin's two interviews—that there has been some slight change for the better in the behavior of Soviet officials. Now this change began almost immediately after an event, after the United States government took the decision to play a strong part in the settlement of the Turkish question and to build up the fleet in the Mediterranean.

For Stalin, as all who have dealt with him seriously testify, is quick to appreciate the significance of strategic developments which affect his own country. The language he understands most readily is the language of military power. Now as long as Mr. Byrnes was trying to negotiate the Red Army out of eastern Europe, Stalin had only to compare the size of the Red Army with the British and American forces in Europe, and he could be confident that Mr. Byrnes would get nowhere.

BUT WHEN in September American sea and air power began to build up in the Mediterranean and behind Turkey, which is the front door to the most vulnerable area of the Soviet Union, then the balance of power in Europe and in the world was altered. The Red Army, which dominates eastern Europe, and could not be moved by a diplomatic frontal assault, can be outflanked in the eastern Mediterranean. The British and Americans can never match the masses of the Red infantry. But sea and air power are a kind of force which we do possess and can readily augment. The appearance of this force on the flank of the whole Russian position in Europe, and pointed in a direction where Russia is most sensitive, was an event which Stalin could not ignore in the calculation of his policy.

This is a concrete example of how, by broadening the field of negotiation, the disposition to find agreements can be improved. Mr. Byrnes' chances of a good agreement about Trieste and the Danube, for example, will be greater in a negotiation which includes the Dardanelles and the Turkish question.

WERE MR. BYRNES willing to consider, and not merely to resent, the idea of a general settlement, he would find not only that his diplomatic power increased. He would find also that the moral position of the United States would be raised. For if we insisted on broadening the field of negotiation, then we could become the sponsors and advocates of the idea that there must not be an eastern European settlement, and then a German settlement, but a European settlement which embraces them all.

The idea of Europe, the idea that Europe is a civilization which non-European powers cannot treat as something to be divided up and used for their rivalry, is perhaps the most influential political idea that can be invoked to raise men's spirits on the continent. Would that we could say to the Europeans that we were in Europe to help them unite and not to divide them, and to mediate among them, not to impose upon them a settlement which reflects our conflict with the Soviet Union.

For then we might hope to win the confidence of the people of Europe, who must live with these settlements, and find security and peace for ourselves because we stood for those very things which in their hearts all good Europeans yearn for.

In Other Words, They're Against It

Nationalization And Unions

By Frank Walker From Brighton

THE controversies and debates which were predicted for the 1946 conference of Britain's Trade Union Congress failed, in the main, to materialize. Instead, congress turned out to be a well disciplined and hard working performance with little opportunity for rhetoric and less for recrimination.

There was a noticeable undercurrent of dissatisfaction with Mr. Bevin's foreign policy but it was successfully headed off by the platform strategy of the congress general council. Furthermore, foreign policy was not the main issue in the eyes of the 800 delegates who, among them, represent nearly 7,000,000 of Britain's organized workers.

Production was the keynote of the conference and it was coupled with the realization that nationalization posed new problems for the trades union. In his opening address, Mr. Charles Dukes, congress president, touched on both these vital points. "Everything comes back, in the last analysis, to this necessity of increasing production, and that means," he said, "the full employment of all our available manpower and all our industrial resources and technical equipment."

FURTHER on in his speech, Mr. Dukes warned that the trades union movement would have to reconsider its functions, powers and methods of negotiation in the new field of socialized industry.

The employing authority no longer represents a limited private interest engaged in the pursuit of profits. It represents a public interest. The welfare of the whole community is its concern. It will conduct the industry as a social service, owing obligations equally to the workers it employs, the consumers it serves and to the people as a whole.

More than this, Mr. Dukes declared that the unions would have to reconsider their attitude towards many of the restrictive methods and practices, which they had engaged in under private enterprise. "These," he said, "stand in a different light when it is the public interest that is served by every managerial and industrial development that increases production per unit of labor."

It will be interesting to see whether traditional trades union thinking can be altered extensively or quickly. Warning was served on the delegates, not once but several times, that nationalization meant a far broader approach in the matter of wage negotiations, working conditions and the self-interest of individual unions.

IT IS no secret that unions have indulged in restrictive practices under private enterprise. It has, indeed, been a common complaint against them but it may come as a shock to many trade unionists to realize that they might find themselves forced "in the public interest" to accept a lower standard of wages or longer working hours under nationalization than they might, perhaps, have attained when dealing directly with a single private employer.

Mr. George Gibson, a member of the general council and a director of the Bank of England, repeated Mr. Dukes' emphasis on increased production. He warned that you could not "fill bellies with acts of parliament. We are not facing the problem unless we tell our folks that it is thrift and honest endeavor that will get us out of the position we are in and no other method." And he repeated: "The new Britain won't just happen. It's got to be built and it has got to be built for all practical purposes upon the ruins of the old."

MR. SHINWELL, the Minister of Fuel, in his address to congress, also pointed out that nationalization involved serious responsibilities of discipline and productive effort. There is no doubt that delegates realize this and that the trades unions are determined that nationalization will not fall from lack of effort on their part.

But the issue remains. Nationalization will not be without serious and revolutionary changes in the ordinary concepts of trades unionism. Quite apart from the benefits which its supporters claim for it, it will mean no easy return to labor. In fact, with the increased demands among unions for a greater share in managerial responsibility, it will no longer be a straight matter of hard bargaining for the greatest benefits for individual workers.

It may well be that increased managerial responsibility, as it comes, will show the problems of management in a startling new light. Meanwhile the test will be in the attitudes of the unions in industries already nationalized. It will be seen there whether, in fact, the new attitude exists.

Letters To The Editor

HAD A GOOD TIME

After reading the article by Mrs. Nancy Hodges with reference to the mental hospital for children at New Westminster, I wish to submit the following:

I doubt if any group of merry-makers had a more enjoyable time than the patients who were privileged to attend the Halloween party at the hospital.

My little girl, who is a patient, related to me in detail the happy event, how the gymnasium was decorated with goblin cut-outs made by the patients attending school, the pumpkin jack-o-lanterns that blinked when the lights inside them went on and off; of the dancing, drills and marching under the leadership of the teacher of physical culture; games and ducking for apples, refreshments of fruit juices, sandwiches, cookies and candy provided by the staff.

This occasion was under the supervision of doctors, matron and staff.

To those who so ably care for these handicapped children, and go the second mile to bring joy into their lives, a grateful mother wishes to say "thank you."

MRS. E. HODDEN.

Difficulties besetting international agreement draw a neat analogy from Helen Champion in the Halifax Herald:

Long ago, it is said, the Emperor Charles V spent his days of retirement in a monastery in Spain, where he gratified his mechanical tastes by trying to make his clocks keep accurate time. Finally he gave it up in despair.

Nations are no easier than clocks to synchronize. And when we read of disagreements at European peace tables, we are reminded of the old emperor's difficulties back in the 16th century.

The contribution the ordinary citizen can make toward town planning is clearly phrased in the Winnipeg Free Press quotation from the St. Paul, Minn., planning commission's report:

"City planning is not a genius bending over a drafting board and displaying perfect plans to the multitude. The trained city planner performs important technical and executive services but the central function of the planning agency is to serve as a table around which the city's people submit their multitudinous projects and desires so that there may be mapped out mutually satisfactory ways of realizing them."

Ottawa's Evening Citizen will find wide endorsement for its statement that:

Progress reports on the return to civil life of the men and women of Canada's armed forces continue to be markedly encouraging.

Since the end of the war, the transition to peacetime occupations of more than 900,000 members of the services has proceeded with far less friction, criticism and difficulty than was, with some justification, anticipated.

Those who recalled what happened after the First World War were apprehensive. But the lessons of that troublesome demobilization were well learned and today only a small fraction of those already back in "civvies" remains unemployed.

Few will quarrel with the Edmonton Bulletin's statement on disarmament:

Canada and Russia are in agreement in the Assembly of the United Nations in calling for a "diminishing of armaments" all round the world. They are not acting in concert, and seem to differ as to procedure, but the object is the same.

There is no reason to suppose that the government or people of any country on earth is opposed to this, or is even neutral on the question. There is not simply the probability that a disarmed world would be less likely to become involved in war than an armed world. The very practical certainty is that armaments are costing more than mankind can afford to spend on them.

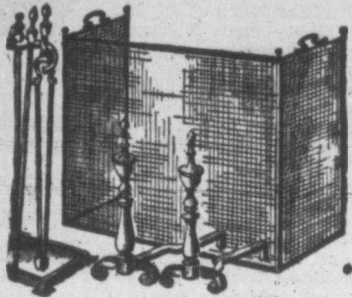

And the equally plain fact that if the United Nations do what their charter requires them to do, no country will need more than a fraction of the armament it now maintains.

Dr. Lotta Hirschmanova To Speak In City Thursday

Dr. Lotta Hirschmanova, director for Canada for the Unitarian Relief Service, will be in Victoria Thursday to address a meeting of the Women's Canadian Club in the Empress Hotel Ballroom at 2.45 and a public meeting in the Chamber of Commerce Auditorium at 8 under the auspices of the Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club.

She will also address students of Victoria High School at 8.45 in the morning and students and staff of Victoria College at 12.30 noon.

A Czechoslovak, born in Prague, Dr. Hirschmanova graduated from the University of Prague and Paris in philosophy and worked as a newspaper woman in France, Belgium and Czechoslovakia until 1938.

After Munich she had to leave her country because of her political beliefs and went to Brussels. When Belgium was invaded she fled to France and lived in hiding until 1941, when she became interpreter of an American relief organization in Marseille. Later, she organized a school for Czechoslovak children liberated from French concentration camps.

From that time dates her first contact with the Unitarian Service Committee.

In May, 1942, her immigration papers were finally ready, and she arrived in Canada. She worked with the National War Services for almost three years as a postal censor, except for a short time when she was appointed to the staff of Unrra in Washington as a research officer.

Since her arrival in Canada Dr. Hirschmanova has devoted a great deal of her efforts to inform the Canadian people of conditions in her native country and Europe.

As recently as July she flew to France, Czechoslovakia, Belgium and Switzerland for two months' visit to gather first hand information as to how relief and rehabilitation is being carried out.

Women's Canadian Club Short Story Contest

This year the annual literary competition of the Women's Canadian Club of Toronto takes the form of a short story of approximately 2,500 words. A prize of $100 is offered in its entirety, or divided among two or three contestants at the discretion of the club.

The contest is open to professional and non-professional writers who are citizens of Canada. Stories which have already been produced or published shall not be accepted.

Manuscripts, addressed to the secretary-treasurer of the Women's Canadian Club of Toronto, 69 Bloor Street East, shall be sent by registered mail and must be delivered by Feb. 15, 1947. Name and address of the writer shall be enclosed in separate sealed envelopes on the outside of which shall appear the writer's pseudonym.

The manuscript must be typewritten in English, on one side only, double spaced. Three copies are required, each copy to be signed with the writer's pseudonym, printed or typewritten.

Contestants who have already received the club's prize shall not be eligible. If, in the opinion of the adjudicators, the stories submitted are not of sufficient high standard, no award will be made.

William Surtees Married Today In Ontario

A wedding of interest here, took place in Whitby, Ont., at 3 this afternoon when Miss Frances Harley Grobb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gordon Grobb, "Haridon," Whitby, exchanged nuptial vows with William Innes Fawcett Surtees, son of Lt.-Cmdr. (E) E. W. T. Surtees, R.C.N. (R) and Mrs. Surtees, 616 Grenville Road, Victoria.

Tall standard baskets of white chrysanthemums and fern decorated picturesque Whitby United Church for the ceremony performed by Rev. Charles Malcolm. Miss Marion Whitfield was the soloist and Mrs. Vernon Rowe played traditional wedding music. A gown of bluish ivory satin fashioned with moulded basque, long pointed sleeves, and full skirt forming a slight train, was worn by the bride as she was escorted down the aisle by her father. Princess lace worn by her mother, outlined the portrait neckline and her fingertip veil was held with a coronet of matching lace and orange blossoms. Her old fashioned bouquet was of American Beauty roses and bouvardia.

Mrs. Howard J. Buck of Toronto, was matron of honor. She wore a turquoise gown of brocade bengaline. Miss Mary Elizabeth Grobb was bridesmaid for her sister, in a gown of pale pink. Their nosegays were of bronze and gold chrysanthemums and they wore headresses of blending ostrich tips.

Don Jackson of Toronto, was groomsmen and ushering were George Williams and A. Murray Lount of Toronto.

At the reception which followed at "Haridon," the home of the bride's parents, Mrs. Grobb assisted the bridal party in receiving their guests.

The young couple will spend their honeymoon in Quebec. For travelling, the bride exchanged her wedding costume for a grey dress with matching hat, ruby-red coat trimmed with grey Persian lamb and a white gardenia corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. Surtees plan to reside in Montreal.

Faculties Hold Joint Banquet

The faculties of Victoria College and the Provincial Normal School held a banquet Monday evening at the Empress Hotel in honor of Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Ewing and Mr. and Mrs. H. O. English.

Dr. Ewing is principal of Victoria College and Mr. English is principal of the Normal School.

Covers were laid for 45 at the banquet table. R. T. Wallace acted as toastmaster.

The toast to the Normal School was proposed by J. A. Cunningham, vice-principal of Victoria College, and responded to by Mr. English. The toast to Victoria College was proposed by H. C. Gilliland, vice-principal of Normal School, and responded to by Dr. Ewing. Following the banquet the guests played bridge.

By the end of this month the two faculties will be sharing accommodation at the Normal School building, and the banquet served as a social "get-acquainted."

GOODBYE DANDRUFF

You'll be delighted with the rich, creamy lather of Fitch's Dandruff Remover Shampoo... it's the only shampoo made whose guarantee to completely remove dandruff is backed by one of the world's largest insurance firms.

FITCH SHAMPOO

IS DIFFERENT—RESULTS ARE DIFFERENT

Even the method of application is different... Fitch Shampoo is applied directly to the DRY hair and scalp. The antiseptic qualities of Fitch penetrate and cleanse the thousands of tiny hair openings. Then when even the hardest water is added, Fitch Shampoo forms an abundant, creamy lather that dissolves dandruff and carries away all dirt and perspiration. No acid after-rinse is needed. Fitch Shampoo leaves all colors and textures of hair soft... lustrous... radiantly clean. It reconditions as it cleanses. Fitch Shampoo is the largest selling shampoo in Canada and the United States. It's economical too! Use Fitch Shampoo regularly each week.

After and between Fitch shampoo you can keep your hair shining and manageable by using a few drops of Fitch's Ideal Hair Tonic every day.

Victoria Musician Honored By Alumni

Announcement was made Monday that Miss Isabelle Pike, had been elected to the executive council of the Toronto Conservatory of Music Alumni Association.

Miss Pike, recently elected president of the Victoria Chapter of the Toronto Conservatory Alumni, took her A.T.C.M. in piano. After a year's post-graduate work in New York, she returned to Victoria and for some years taught music here. She was also organist and choir leader of Fairfield United Church for seven years.

The daughter of Mrs. S. E. Pike, 122 Cambridge Street, Miss Pike takes a keen interest in the musical life of the city.

Coupled with the announcement of her appointment was that of Mrs. Arthur Bates, 1555 Gladstone Avenue, who will replace Mrs. C. S. Beals as representative of the Toronto Conservatory here. Mrs. Beals recently left Victoria to reside in Ottawa.

Cathedral Guides Entertain

Ann Armstrong, Sybil Irish. Spanish lady and gypsy.

Jean McMillan, Babs Hotchkiss. Pair of farmers.

More than 60 young people gathered at Memorial Hall for a Halloween Masquerade party given by the Cathedral 4th West Girl Guides. St. John's Guides were their guests.

Upon arrival they were greeted by a Halloween ghost and at the witch's den received a gift. Costumes were judged, winners being as follows: Best dressed, Joan Biddle as a witch; most original, Marguerite Gardom and Patsy Madeley as Aunt Jemima and husband; most comical, Nora Wolfe, a box; best national, Norma Stewart, Swedish lady; most historical, June Panter, Queen Anne; best advertising, Kay Earle, baking powder tin. Games were enjoyed and ice cream and apples served.

It's been a long time since we've been able to offer any of these beautiful items.

HANDLING THE KIDDER

Dear Dorothy Dix: I am no longer in my twenties and am still unmarried. I have a nice position in an office, but I am made very unhappy by being made the butt of a lot of kidding because I am single. I am always asked when am I going to be married, and I simply can't take it any longer. Maybe I am too sensitive to remarks like this, but I cannot turn a deaf ear to them.

How can I answer these boys and girls who make my life a burden to me?

DISCOURAGED.

Answer: Why don't you kid back, for kidders can never stand being kidded themselves? The weapon is in your own hands, if you only have the nerve to use it. The next time one of these men ask you when you are going to be married, say: "Well, sweetheart, I am just waiting on you to set the date." And be sure to tell some of the girls, in confidence, that you and John, or Tom, or Bill or whatever the kidders' name is, are engaged. Or you might tell the kidders that you were waiting to marry until you could afford to support a husband. That would hold him if he happened to be getting a smaller salary than you do.

Think up what is the vanity spot in any one of these men and touch it on the raw and he will let you alone. You have to make him afraid of the comeback. Of course, no man who was a gentleman or had any decent feeling would try to humiliate you as these men are doing. So you needn't be careful of their feelings.

But can't you see that you are asking for the punishment you get by writhing under it? The minute you can laugh it off they will stop.

Norma Stewart, Beverley Watson. Swedish lady and gypsy.

Is the "BABY BONUS" a Success?

When the family allowance, better known as the "baby bonus," was first started more than a year ago, many parents hailed it with glee, but many tax-weary citizens howled with rage. How does the country feel about it today? How much has it meant to the small wage earner with the large family? What has it cost the taxpayers? These questions are fully answered in an exclusive feature in The Standard this week!

A COMPLETE WINTER WARDROBE FOR $200?

Snickers all you like at those so-called Bobby Soxers, but those slick chicks know a thing or two about buying clothes! Marilyn Chipman of Winnipeg, Nancy Webster of Toronto, Beverley Burjow of Hamilton, and Pamela Haldenby of Montreal, set out recently with $200 in their jeans and came back with a complete winter wardrobe... with a few pennies still left over for a milk shake! This week, Kate Aitken of The Standard describes in detail the clothes they bought and how much they spent on each item — fully illustrated with pictures!

NEWFOUNDLAND IS TIRED OF BEING PUSHED AROUND!

It takes no biased history book to convince Newfoundlanders that they have been victims in the game of Empire! Kicked around by international diplomacy for so long, they're tired of it. Today, after 12 years of commission government, Newfoundland again debates her future as she prepares to vote on the question of whether she wants to change her present form of government... or hang on to it! This week, staff writer Kenneth Johnstone of The Standard writes the story of Newfoundland, its people, its problems and its hopes—one of the most straightforward, informative articles ever written on the subject!

HOLLYWOOD THINKS BRITISH MOVIE IS IMMORAL!

Believe it or not, the gowns that Margaret Lockwood wears in the British movie, "The Wicked Lady", actually shocked the pious Hollywood censor — of all people! So much so that he refused to release the picture to American audiences until the gowns had been re-tailored! See the pictures in The Standard this week showing Margaret Lockwood wearing the much-discussed gowns before and after they had been "improved" by the Hollywood moralists!

IT COST $4,000 TO MARRY THIS GIRL!

Hot Mints Blamed For Wild Ride In Oak Bay Gardens

"The Saga of the Peppermints" is what Oak Bay police are calling a believe-it-or-not story of an accident on Beach Drive in which a visitor from the south lost control of his car, jumped a curb, ran over a sidewalk, into a garden, over a rock garden and a lawn, through a fence, over two more rock gardens, traveling 550 feet in all, then turned around and drove away without so much as a scratch to the under part of the car.

"I wouldn't have believed it without seeing it," the police informant remarked, and then went on to relate the motorist's excuse for the mad ride.

The motorist, an elderly man who visits Victoria every year and who was driving a 1939-model car, had been in town shopping and had purchased some Scotch peppermints which he saw on the deserted shelf of a candy shop. He then decided to take a last drive around the waterfront before his scheduled departure next day for home.

He had popped two of the peppermints in his mouth. They were hot—much hotter than he thought they would be. They made him cough. In coughing he bit them in two. Now there were four pieces of candy in his mouth. The coughing persisted. The sharp-edged candies caught in his throat. This created intense pain. The pain caused him to lurch forward falling over the steering wheel. His foot pressed on the accelerator. The car shot forward, swerving over the sidewalk.

The car in its uncontrolled "flight" narrowly missed trees and gate posts, and sailed over rocks three feet high. But the only damage it sustained was a broken windshield caused by a two-by-four in the fence into which it crashed.

"A bren-gun carrier wouldn't be capable of taking the same route, it was so rough and wild," police said.

Financial restoration was made by the visitor for the damage done in the garden.

College Students Hear Many Talks

Clubs at Victoria College this week are featuring a number of guest speakers. Monday night Dr. S. N. F. Chant spoke on "The Psychologist's View on the Modern World," covering a wide range of subjects he stressed the effect of peoples' emotional feelings on current problems.

The Varsity Christian Fellowship meeting today at noon heard Dr. W. Wrightman, formerly of the University of Georgia, speaking on "The Philosophy of the Christian Religion."

Rene Thibault, a brilliant French scholar who has taught in France and the Orient, who was attached to Gen. de Gaulle's Free French Forces and who is now press attache and director of information service at the French Embassy, Ottawa, will speak to the students at 12.30 tomorrow.

Sir Robert Holland will address the International Relations Club tomorrow evening on "India."

Dr. Lotta Hirschmanova, director of relief to France and Czechoslovakia, who has just spent two months in Paris, Prague, and other centres, will speak to the college on Thursday at noon under the auspices of the College Student Christian Movement. This organization will hold a tag day at college tomorrow in order to present a sum of money to Dr. Hirschmanova for student relief in Europe.

Mid-terms at college are over and students are looking forward to the Hard Times Dance Thursday night. They are also awaiting the eventful day of moving to Normal School. It is anticipated that the move will take place in another week or two.

New Members Give Classification Talks

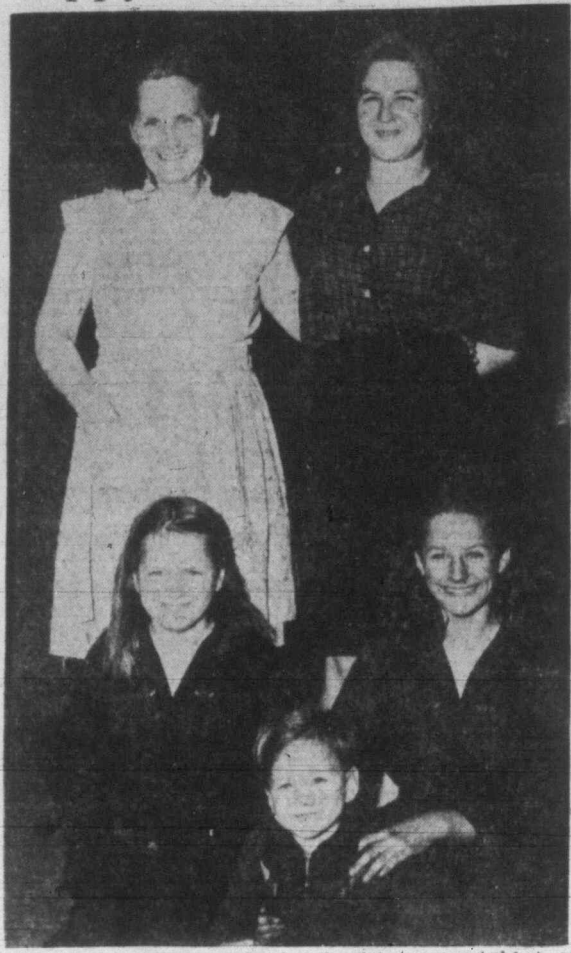

Three new Gyro members gave classification talks at the weekly luncheon at the Empress Hotel Monday.

Bruce Humber, of Humber's Ltd.; Bob Green, journalistic student, and Stan Kenton of Kenton's jewelers, were the new gyros who took advantage of the opportunity available to them to speak of their businesses and associations.

Arnold Ramer, of Toronto, who recently arrived in the city to take over the duties of general secretary of the Y.M.C.A. was introduced to the club by Archie McKinnon, "Y" physical director.

Art Saunders reported that a theatre party will be held at the Little Theatre, Nov. 29, when three one-act plays will be presented.

Happy In Jailhouse Home

Mrs. J. Petrie and four of her six children are shown on the steps of the guard house at Macaulay Point, where they are setting up housekeeping. Mrs. Petrie is standing with her daughter, Betty. Seated on the steps (left to right), are 10-year-old Dorothy, three-year-old Jimmy, and 13-year-old Jean.

The jail cells of the guard-house will be the bedrooms of the children, and Mr. and Mrs. Petrie Monday were making happy plans to put fresh linoleum on the floors and paint the bleak walls, for which they had received the paint. "I can do the work myself," Mr. Petrie said, "the workmen can go ahead on the conversion of the other huts for other families. We can make this into a real nice home before we are through."

Mr. Petrie was with the Queen's Own Cameron Highlanders and has four and a half years' overseas service. He now works at V.M.D. Before moving into Macaulay the family lived at Hapay Valley, but the house was sold. Biggest problem is to find a stove, as all they have for heating is a small heater. Today three more families are moving into unconverted huts at Macaulay and by tomorrow there will be 20 children and six families established there. "These are only the most desperate cases," A. Palmer, secretary of the Citizens' Rehabilitation Council, explained. "Others will have to wait until we can get some conversion work done."

Censors In Vancouver Withdraw 'The Outlaw'

VANCOUVER (CP)—The motion picture "The Outlaw" was withdrawn by the Board of Censors Monday night, just 36 hours before it was scheduled to be screened at a downtown theatre here. Originally passed by the board, the Jane Russell vehicle was suddenly recalled to be reviewed by the board of appeal, highest court of movie censorship in B.C. No date has yet been set for the review.

R.C.A.F. Veterans Operate New Service Station

Henry Stephen Saunders and Stanley William Hitchman, owners of the new Saunders and Hitchman Service Station at 2554 Cadboro Bay Road bring to motorists of Victoria a wide experience in the automotive field. Both worked in garages prior to enlistment, and while in the air force, Henry Saunders was an air frame mechanic and Stan Hitchman an aero engine mechanic. Saunders' father has operated a service station at Duncan for 20 years, so Henry has had ample opportunity to absorb all details of service station work. He attended the Duncan Elementary and High Schools. Hitchman was educated at Oaklands Elementary School and Victoria High. Shortly after leaving school he joined the firm of Wilson & Cabellu, and apart from his R.C.A.F. service has been with the firm ever since leaving it a few days ago to become actively engaged in the firm of which he is partner.

Film Council

Three new travelogue films are now available at the Victoria Public Library. These are: "Washington," "Hawaii," and "People of Western China." "Redwood Saga," an excellent silent film on lumbering, is also in the collection at present. It shows the process from felling the trees to stacking the cut lumber at the mill.

The Film Council meeting, Thursday, will be held at the Victoria Public Library in the Children's Room. A representative of the National Film Board will speak on "Film Councils in B.C." and several films will be previewed.

The recreational council, in co-operation with the Film Council, will sponsor a film forum on recreation to be held Nov. 22, at the City Council Chamber.

Eviction Orders Worst Problems In Sheriff's Life

The need for temporary dwellings to accommodate tenants legally evicted from homes by their landlords, is stressed by a man who sometimes faces one of the most unpleasant jobs in Victoria—carrying out a court order instructing him to take possession of a dwelling from a tenant for various legal reasons.

It's a job where you can't win, he will say. Tenants blame him for taking over their homes, while landlords sometimes complain that he isn't carrying out his duties fast enough.

He explains the reason why he is worried about the housing situation in Victoria is because at the moment there isn't a dwelling where you can accommodate evicted tenants with children. And this was serious because the lack of any temporary shelter meant that evicted tenants stood the chances of having their goods and furniture put on the street.

Such action, he says, makes it unduly hard for a person, especially if he isn't responsible for the state of affairs. Police can charge a person, so evicted, for obstructing traffic and seize his furniture as well.

The sheriff considers any evicted person should have priority on housing.

"You can't leave a family on the streets," he said. "You have to find them some shelter, and this is no easy matter now-a-days."

Although the sheriff is not obliged to find shelter for evicted persons, housing authorities report that when anyone is in trouble and has tried to help himself, the sheriff will do all in his power to find a dwelling for him.

"When I get a court eviction order I am obliged to carry it out," he said. "But I sometimes can find a way of helping a man out by giving him a little time to find shelter."

SOME ARE BITTER

He explained that he attempts to achieve his purpose without rousing a feeling of injustice which is sometimes no easy matter as tenants are inclined to be bitter about evictions. He also reported that he has never been forced to call on the aid of police in order to carry out his instructions.

He said that when he receives an eviction order he immediately calls on the tenant to see him and finds out if he has found any temporary dwelling for his family. If the man is reasonable and has tried to help himself, he said, everything is done through the housing authorities to find him shelter.

The sheriff has definite ideas about the housing situation. He doesn't blame landlord or tenant for the state of affairs.

I can't help feeling sorry for the people in the lower income bracket, he said. Many of them have been forced to buy homes which are beyond their means which will eventually lead to hardships. It just takes a few members of the family to fall sick to put him into debt which may last a lifetime.

Mr. MacBride said he hasn't much sympathy for people who refused to take tenants who have children. He described such an action as a "first class evil."

The sheriff revealed that sometimes he has been obliged to evict persons who resided in log cabins in the bush. His territory does not only include Victoria but stretches to Mill Bay, south of the Solarium and takes in Port Renfrew on the West Coast.

Laundry Work Will Cost More

A new price scale for 18 B.C. laundries will increase the cost of laundry work by about 18 per cent.

The price revision, which applies to all laundry bundles picked up by drivers or left at offices, is the first in 25 years and will bring the cost of laundering in major B.C. cities in line with prices effective in other points in the Dominion, laundrymen say. The new price scale, which has been approved by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board will be announced shortly.

Three factors necessitated the price revision. These are: (1) Authorization of higher wages for employees, recently granted by the Regional War Labor Board; (2) increased cost of supplies used in laundering and (3) higher maintenance cost due to increased cost of repairs, new equipment and other essentials in laundering operations.

Local laundries affected are New Method Laundry Ltd., Standard Steam Laundry Ltd., and Economy Laundry.

The factors necessitating the increased scale for laundry work do not apply to dry cleaning and there will be no price increase for this work.

Brains and Beauty

Australia's choice in beauty, blonde 20-year-old Miss Rhonda Kelly, holds a bouquet of red roses presented her during her tour of Canada.

"Miss Australia, 1945," who will arrive in Victoria Nov. 20, won her title not only for her blonde beauty but also because of her intelligence which she used to vanquish 999 other contestants for the title.

When a "Miss Australia" was first suggested as a means of raising funds for the Australian War Veterans' Appeal and it was decided the winner should go abroad, the organizers realized looks alone would not be sufficient to carry "Miss Australia" through the receptions and other entertainments which would be arranged for her overseas; nor would the choice merely of a pretty girl be a true representation of the typical Australian girl.

So, when entrants had, through various groups sponsoring their candidature, raised the required sum of money for the Veterans' Appeal and the field was narrowed down to the girls chosen to represent their particular state, perhaps the most comprehensive panel of judges ever to decide a beauty competition was convened.

Dockyard Employees Want Saturday Off

Elimination of the regulation requiring civil servants at H.M.C. Dockyard to work on Saturday is sought in a resolution passed by the Naval Employees' Group of the Amalgamated Civil Servants of Canada Branch of the Naval Service at its first official meeting, held at the Esquimalt Dockyard Branch of the Canadian Legion Monday night.

H. Finmore and J. W. Sulsbury were named as fraternal delegates to the Canadian Naval Auxiliary Vessels group.

Mrs. H. S. Hales, F. D. Hickman, J. W. Sulsbury and E. L. Call were named as delegates to the organization's local council meeting Thursday.

In future, the monthly meeting of the group will be held the last Monday of the month.

Ewing To Lecture At Southern California

Dr. J. M. Ewing, principal of Victoria College, will be one of the visiting lecturers at the summer session of the University of Southern California next summer, he announced today.

The summer session will start June 23 and last until the end of the first week in August, Dr. Ewing said.

He will give three courses in psychology during the six weeks. He is professor of philosophy and psychology at Victoria College.

Dr. Ewing said that it was doubtful if a summer session would be held at Victoria College next year.

Albertans Critical Of Saanich Water

The lack of an adequate water supply in Saanich is the subject of a critical letter received by the Chamber of Commerce from a group of Edmonton residents who claim many people would come to Saanich to retire if the situation was remedied.

"We all agree that for its temperate climate, its luxuriant vegetation and its magnificent scenery, Victoria and its surroundings offer attractions which are unequalled in the world. We think Victoria ought to be better known by Canadians, and that it should become the Riviera of this continent," the letter states in part.

"But the water question mars the brilliant picture," it continues. "Assured of an adequate water supply, we feel confident that many Canadians who look to California as the ideal place to retire would settle in the surroundings of Victoria, and that within a short period the whole Saanich peninsula could be covered with beautiful homes."

Cambrian Fossils Purchased By U.B.C.

The University of British Columbia will purchase a unique collection of Lower Cambrian fossils, it is announced by the president. This collection was made by the late Dr. Pollen and C. Garrett of Cranbrook, B.C.

The collection was obtained by blasting a trench into solid rock for some 12 or 15 feet and to a depth at the back of some eight or 10 feet. The fossils collected from the rocks are beautifully preserved and trimmed and from a scientific point of view extremely valuable.

They will be used by the department of geology and geography as a basis for Cambrian study in the province.

Also included in the collection are valuable fossils, from trilobites beds at Banff and elsewhere.

Everyone has a Stake in the TEXTILE INDUSTRY

It's NOT only that everyone uses cotton goods for clothing and in dozens of articles which they may never think of as containing cotton — such things as garden hose, electric wiring, oilcloth, window shades...

Everyone has a stake in the textile industry because whole Canadian towns depend for employment on textile mills... The millions of dollars paid out every year in wages find their way into the pockets of farmers, fishermen and miners as well as into the hands of grocers, butchers, bakers, railwaymen... in fact everybody benefits.

It is important to every Canadian that these cotton goods are made in Canada by Canadians, and that their wages are spent in Canada.

Russia Wins Melbourne Cup

MELBOURNE, Australia (CP)—Russia, a six-year-old gelding, owned by J. G. Leeds and E. Hush, romped two miles in three minutes, 21½ seconds in the Melbourne Gold Cup race today to equal the Flemington course record and pick up $7,000 ($22,400) first money.

Thirty-five horses ran in the classic race before 100,000 spectators. Russia took the lead in the last half mile, and at the finish was five lengths ahead of the favorite, On Target, which took $2,000 second money. Half a head behind On Target was Carey, whose third prize was $1,600.

Russia was ridden by veteran jockey Darby Munro, who previously had ridden two horses to Melbourne Gold Cup victories. The horse went to the post a 16 to 1 longshot.

Verley, Morrison Win Golf Buttons

Gordon Verley and Bob Morrison, members of the Uplands Club, took possession of the city golf buttons over the weekend, with a 2 up victory over Dr. George Bigelow and Alan Taylor, Oak Bay, on the latter's course.

Verley and Morrison will defend the buttons Nov. 17 against a challenge of Eric Hibberson and Roy Stranix, another Uplands pair.

$89,600 Pool For A.H.L. Players

NEW YORK (AP)—A record high play-off pool, which together with all-star premiums for players, totals $89,600, has been announced by Maurice Podoloff, president of the American Hockey League.

The play-off pool totals $74,600 and will be divided according to the order in which the six teams participating in the playoffs finish. The three top teams in both the western and eastern divisions will qualify to take

Colorful Harlem Trotters Tour With Aggregation Of Real Stars

CHICAGO (Special)—The mighty Harlem Globe Trotters, basketball's greatest attraction, are ready to roll again. And special preparations are being made this season, for this will be the 20th anniversary edition of the great aggregation that has written basketball history.

Highlights for this season will be a second successive tour of the Hawaiian Islands, a visit to Cuba for several games, a series of appearances through Canada and British Columbia and possible appearances in the Philippines and Mexico. The team's schedule of games in the United States will be marked by appearances in the largest arenas against the finest teams of the nation.

Owner-coach Abe Saperstein returned from Hawaii, where he had taken the Cincinnati Crescents baseball team on a successful tour, and applied the finishing touches on the cage preparations. Saperstein is jubilant over the plans for the Globe Trotters and the prospects for one of the greatest aggregations in the team's history.

"With the war a thing of the past," Saperstein said, "we are able to present once again a squad of players worthy of carrying the Globe Trotters' name, a particularly fitting item in this, our 20th anniversary season."

VETERANS BACK

Among the many players working out this week in Chicago as the Globe Trotters, get set for their long schedule opening Nov. 10 are such great veterans as the inimitable pride of Eldorado, Ark., Reece ("Goose") Tatum, the baseball and basketball wizard, who is six feet, three and a half inches of playing ability and showmanship; mighty Ted Strong, the six-foot two-and-a-half-inch all-round athletic marvel from Kansas City; Willy Zack Clayton, six-foot forward from Philadelphia, long a standout star; the many-time all-American guard, Louis ("Babe") Pressley of Cleveland, who stands six foot three inches; Johnny Scott, six foot three inches, the former all-Illinois high school sensation from Centralia, and Donald ("Ducky") Moore, speedy six-foot forward from Cleveland.

This is the year that the famed Nat ("Sweetwater") Clifton, the great six-foot, eight-inch star from Wendell Phillips High School in Chicago and Xavier University in New Orleans, considered the finest high school player ever developed in the Windy City, is to make his bow as a Globe Trotter.

Clifton's presence with the Harlemites has been held up by his three-and-one-half-year tenure in the army. Tatum and Strong joined the Trotters last spring after their long terms in the armed forces, Goose with the air corps and Ted with the Seabees, in time to make the first Hawaii trip on which the Trotters won 17 straight.

They will add this season to a record that includes 2,730 victories as against only 22 defeats in 19 seasons, one all the more remarkable when it is considered that they travel day in and day out through a long schedule and in all sorts of wintry weather, playing as many as eight and nine games a week from early November until late April, never rejecting any opponent as too strong, never scouting an opponent beforehand, always playing off opponents' courts and never questioning choice of officials, and always finding time for their clean stunts of showmanship and managing to win nearly every game.

It's a record further augmented by such illustrious feats as winning the world's championship tournament at Chicago in 1940, the Mexico City International Invitational tournaments in 1943 and 1944 and playing in the first game as pro-champions against the nation's picked college all-stars at the Chicago Stadium in November of 1940 before a world's record basketball crowd.

Last year the Globe Trotters won 152 games while dropping only 13. Their season was high marked by a great triumph over the Rochester Royals after the latter had swept through to the National Pro League championship. Off that victory the Trotters based a legitimate claim to the world's professional championship.

Former College Aces Battle Dominoes Here

Headed by Bob Lindh, all-coast selection of the University of Washington and several other well-known hoopers, Matheny Bacon will be over Saturday night to do battle with the Dominoes in the first intercity game of the season.

Ed Lopan, Bob Tonkin, Don Adams of last year's team, Kenny Link, member of Idaho team of 1942; Earl Zing of St. Mary's pre-flight, and Chuck Reed and George Fliflet of the 1943 Washington five, make up the nucleus of the visitors line-up. Harry Nelson and George Hood are the other members of the ten-man squad.

Brentwood Aces are proving to be the power in the senior B race this year, as they captured their third straight game in rather easy fashion last night, 46 to 30, over the Chinese Students.

Navy dropped their match with the St. Louis College alumni by a 38 to 33 count, while Bruisers edged Macdonalds 44 to 39 in the opener.

In the feature event, the Alumni surprised the sailors by bouncing into a first-half 24 to 16 margin and managed to maintain a five-point lead throughout the second half to capture their first win of the season and knock the R.C.N. lads out of the undefeated class. Stan King of the winners, led both teams with 15 points.

COAST TO WIN

With Ronnie Benn and Sluggert each netting 10 points, Aces had far too much power for the smaller Students and after building up an 11-point lead at the half, coasted to a win.

Bruisers and Macdonalds kept the fans on their toes, as the scrappy Macdonalds came from behind to knot the count at 23-all in the third period, only to see the Bruisers pull away and maintain a five-point margin at the bell. Carson and Watson with 17 and 13 points were the big guns in the Bruisers' attack while Louis McCorkall topped his five with 15 points, eight of them coming in the final quarter.

Teams and scores follow:
Bruisers-Robertson 13, Hay 10, Dickie 2, Carson 17, Scott, Strunkling 5, Brodeur.
Macdonalds-McCorkall 15, Sprinkling 2, Page 6, Malcolm 2, Peterson 4, Lomas 6, Gies 7.
Brentwood Aces-P. Benn 10, J. Turner 4, B. Turner 9, B. Sussert 10, J. Sussert 4, G. Major, H. Yardley 9, Chinese Students-Mar 6, Don Lee 2, T. Lee 4, Pong 2, Leung 2, Yuen 5, Keni 9, Duncan Lee.
Navy-Bates 14, V. Dover, S. James 16, D. Nye 13, M. Smith 3, A. Goldson, H. Anderson.

Vancouver Dogs Win Prizes At Edmonton

EDMONTON (CP)—A Doberman Pinscher, champion Marlenland's Dirk Von Blau Ture, won best dog in show laurels at the Junior Chamber of Commerce dog show held here Monday. The winner is owned by C. W. Kelly of Vancouver.

The Doberman was also awarded first prize in the working group class and best of breed in the Doberman Pinscher class by show judge Mervin F. Rosenbaum of San Francisco.

A tiny toy Pomeranian, little Sambo of Craigmayle, owned by Mrs. C. Miller of Vancouver, won the toy group blue ribbon.

Football Tickets For $200

NEW YORK (CP)—To Canadians who know Felix ("Doc") Blanchard and Glen ("Junior") Davis merely as shadowy figures in a newsreel, the mounting hysteria hereabouts for Saturday's Army-Notre Dame game may seem a little far-fetched.

Those who remember the fighting Irish only as a team Knute Rockne coached in the '20s may be mildly shocked, for instance, to learn that Americans are offering $100 a pair for bleacher seats in Yankee Stadium—and up to $200 for the 50-yard line variety.

The explanation is simply that this is it, the "big" game, the battle United States college football has been waiting for since Blanchard and Davis pooled their matchless talents at the start of the 1944 season to accumulate a 25-game undefeated sequence for Army, spilling the proud Irish along the way, 50 to 0 in 1944 and 48 to 0 in 1945.

IRISH HOLD EDGE

There was no stopping Blanchard and Davis, the 21-year-old All-Americans, the co-destroyers of college football, the most devastating one-two punch a team possessed. Notre Dame had beaten the cadets 22 times in 30 meetings prior to 1944, but this time they couldn't answer coach Earl (Red) Blaik's Black Knight's from the West Point, N.Y., military academy.

This year a revitalized Notre Dame team came out of South Bend, Ind. Coach Frank Leahy was back from the navy and he had never been beaten by army. After him from an Atlantic sub-chaser came Johnny Lujack, the 21-year-old Polish quarterback. With Lujack riling the forwards—30 of 58 completed for 579 yards—Notre Dame this fall won five straight, piling up 177 points to 18 for their opponents.

New Westminster Upsets Seattle

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—A four-goal burst in the second period was good enough to give New Westminster Royals a 6 to 3 upset victory over Seattle Ironmen, northern division leaders, in a Pacific Coast Hockey League game here Monday night.

Ken Ulyot led the flying Royals with a brace of goals. Reg Bentley, John Schmidt, Willie Schmidt and Jack Tomson accounted for the others while Bill Robinson, Red Tilson and Al Rittinger scored for Ironmen who now have six wins and four losses in 10 starts.

Robinson opened the scoring for Seattle early in the first, converting Ed Dartnell's pass out and Tilson made it 2 to 0 at the start of the second before Royals found the range.

Then the British Columbian whippers in four goals in eight minutes from the sticks of R. Bentley, Johnny Schmidt, Willie Schmidt and Ken Ulyot. They kept up the pace in the third with two more by Tomson and Ulyot with the third Seattle marker by Rittinger sandwiched in between.

Eagles' first division juvenile soccer team will practice at MacDonald Park tomorrow at 7.

Wednesday Football Games Tomorrow

With Spencer's, Hudsons Bay and Navy eleven's tied for top spot in the Wednesday soccer league, the two matches on deck tomorrow afternoon should clarify the situation somewhat, as the Bay team will travel to Colville Road to meet the Sailors on their home grounds, while in the other match the winless Army team will provide the opposition for Spencers at Athletic Park.

Spencers have been coming along very nicely of late, and should have little trouble with the soldiers, although the army lads show plenty of fight and are capable of upsetting the dope.

The match at Colville road should be keen, as both teams will be shooting the works in an attempt to move into top place in the league standings.

Game times are 2:30.

Hoop Games Tonight

Games tonight in the Victoria and District Basketball League at Central Junior High School will see Oak Bay and St. Louis College meet in a junior game, followed an hour later by an inter-mediate B boys match between Brentwood Aces and St. Louis College.

WESTS WORK OUT

There will be a practice session for members of Victoria West Football Club at Athletic Park at 7 tomorrow.

Taylor Top Scorer Durnan Best Goalie

MONTREAL (CP)—National Hockey League statistics released today showed Billy (The Kid) Taylor, fleet forward of Detroit Red Wings, the league's leading point-maker for the second straight week with three goals and nine assists for 12 points.

Roy Conacher, Taylor's linemate, is in the second slot with five tallies and three assists for eight points. One point behind Conacher is Canadiens' Maurice Richard with seven points accumulated from five goals and two assists.

Richard and Conacher lead the league in the number of goals scored with five apiece and Taylor is the leading play-maker with nine assists.

The Canucks' Bill Durnan tops the goalkeepers with the least number of goals scored against him. He has allowed 10 shots to slip past him in six games. Frankie Brimsek of Boston Bruins and Durnan share the shutout honors with one each.

Hal Jackson, Detroit Red Wings fiery defenceman, is the most penalized player in the loop with 19 minutes in the cooler.

BACK FROM a trip to eastern United States that started out as a jaunt to see the world baseball series but wound up for a sight-seeing affair when Brooklyn and St. Louis got into that playoff for the National League pennant and threw the big series back a week, Bud Castner brings back some interesting sidelights on the Ted Williams' situation in Boston. While in Beantown Castner took in an exhibition game between the Red Sox and American League All-stars, "Williams is hated in Boston and it will be a big surprise to me if he remains with the Sox another season," Castner said.

HE THEN turned over to me a Boston paper which carried comment on the proposed trade or sale of Williams. I quote: "Everybody knows that Williams is desirous of shaking the good, clean dust of Boston off his feet. The Red Sox have a tiger by the tail and if the tiger wants them to let go that feeling might be shared by Messrs. Yawkey, Collins and Cronin. They have not been able to handle as temperamental a prima donna as the stage of baseball has ever known. They have no assurance that he will not walk out on them and accept a fabulous offer from the many Pasquel brothers. They have a quarter-of-a-million dollar asset in their hands today. Tomorrow they may have just an empty locker to show for it. Therefore, the Red Sox have decided to cash him in quickly, before they have nothing to cash. The Sox would not have received offers from Detroit Tigers and the New York Yankees unless those teams knew that he was on the counter."

DURING the months of August and September, Williams acted and batted exactly like a spoiled brat who was determined to have his way and to play no more baseball for the Red Sox. Boston fans have had their last look at Williams in a Red Sox uniform. I, like a great many other fans, will not regret his going, and if the members of the championship Red Sox team itself, were as honest they would say exactly the same. He does not associate with them. He would not even attend the victory party in Cleveland with them. He is utterly lacking in anything that bears even a remote resemblance to team spirit or team pride. First and last and at all times in between, he is for Ted Williams and Ted Williams alone. So he will go his frustrated way, to hate the population of New York or Detroit next year as this year he hates the people of Boston, and all I can wish him, as he goes, good luck. He may need it."

CHATTING with Castner we asked him for his opinion of the two DiMaggio brothers, Joe and Dominic, whom he saw perform in the exhibition. "Dominic is every bit as good a ball player as Joe and both boys are so good they make every play look easy," he said. "The fellow I really like watching was Hal Newhouse, the Detroit pitcher. From what they tell me he is every bit as fast as Feller when he wants to cut loose. Another interesting point was the manner in which those big league umpires work. The four officials are just like a well-drilled team. They really give the pitchers corners and from my personal observations any breaks go to the pitchers and not the batters. Of the infielders I was most impressed by the work of Boston's Bobby Doerr at second base. He is a streak of lightning and how he pivots when making a double play." While in Los Angeles Castner took in a pro football game at the Coliseum, along with 50,000 other fans, featuring the Los Angeles Rams and Detroit Lions. "The professionals play a wide-open game that provides all the thrills for the customers. That Coliseum, with a seating capacity of 105,000 is really colossal and the crowd that day left the place looking like it was empty."

Victorian Who Lost Fishboat In Gale Returns To Fishing

Ian Hamilton, 1115 Caledonia Avenue, undaunted by his narrow escape from death Thursday when his fishing craft, Lady Luck, was smashed on the rocks of Finlayson Point by a gale, has again gone fishing.

The only thing Hamilton managed to salvage from the Lady Luck was the engine. The rest in which he, a veteran of the R.C.N.V.R., and another veteran, Gordon Reid, had invested their re-establishment credit, was a complete loss.

Hamilton, who served overseas aboard a minesweeper, came out of the service a year ago. He and Reid spent their spare time converting a C.P.R. lifeboat into a fishing vessel.

He had only been using the Lady Luck two days at the time the gale drove her ashore.

WINGS OF TOMORROW:

No. 8: Faster Than Sound

By CHARLES TRACY

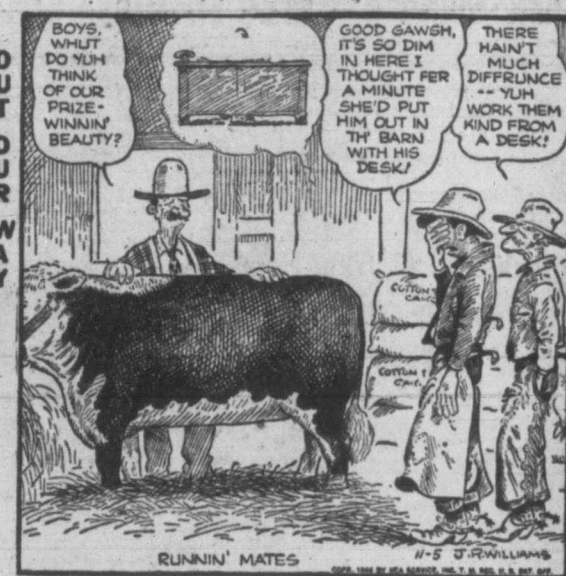

(1) Aviation today is on the threshold of a new era—the supersonic age. Ambitious man, having simplified in 43 years the problems of flying and attained speeds greater than 500 miles an hour, struggles to break through the barriers preventing him from traveling faster than sound—763 miles an hour. New designs are necessary to make possible these supersonic flights. Tremendous new power is becoming available in rocket and jet propulsion engines, rapidly developed under the pressure of war.

(2) Propeller-driven planes will have little use in the new era. The cylinder-and-piston engine which has pushed man's wings aloft from his first flight to the present has reached the peak of its usefulness. Commercial and military craft will be jet-propelled in the immediate future. At 600 m.p.h. air travelers will become accustomed to smooth, high-altitude flights. Rockets will follow the jets. In experiments this year the army sent rockets modeled after the German V-2 into the ionosphere 83½ miles at a speed of 3,500 m.p.h. Information gained from the delicate instruments these pilotless, radio-controlled craft carried will aid man to plan his own altitude-record-shattering flight.

(3) Air terminals with hotels and shopping centres—miniature cities in themselves—are being planned for tomorrow's air travelers. New York's Idlewild and the terminal proposed for Burbank, Cal., are forerunners of tomorrow's stepping-off points to major cities of the globe. Hell-troopers will find an important use as air limousines connecting the heart of each city with its airports. The Westair Helicopter Terminal planned for New York may be duplicated in many large cities. Helicopters are already carrying mail to airports from downtown post offices.

(4) While aeronautical engineers await the perfection of jet and rocket propulsion to power tomorrow's sky giants and meteor-swift fighters, they are producing the ultimate in aircraft powered by reciprocating engines. Howard Hughes' immense eight-engine flying boat, made of wood, will be capable of carrying 700 persons. It is the largest plane ever built. The Northrop flying wing, XB-35, first of a fleet of 15 giant tailless bombers, is 25 per cent more efficient than are such conventional types as the Boeing B-29. Its designers plan similar transports, 100 m.p.h. faster than current types.

(Tomorrow: New Terror in the Air.)

Park Swan Escapes To Open Sea

One of the young swans from Beacon Hill Park has felt the lure of the open spaces and is independently swimming around just off Dallas Road, W. H. Warren, parks superintendent, reported today.

Several efforts have been made to lure the bird back to the lake at Beacon Hill, where he belongs, but every time a boat nears him he heads for the open sea.

Dependents Arriving On Coast Thursday

Nine dependents of Victoria and Vancouver Island servicemen are scheduled to arrive on the Pacific coast Thursday from Halifax where they disembarked from Ss. Empire Brent, headquarters of M.D. 11, Department of National Defence (Army), reported today.

They are: Mrs. Betty Dunbar, wife of Sgt. W. J. Dunbar, going to Coombs; Mrs. Christina Wiperman, Dutch bride of Sgt. H. Wiperman, and child, Lasqueti Island; Mrs. Dorcas M. Zuccolini, wife of L. Cpl. G. Zuccolini, and six-month-old Stephen, Nanaimo;

Mrs. Iris R. Gibb, wife of Pte. J. W. Gibb, Cedar Hill Road, Victoria; Mrs. Lillian J. White, wife of Cpl. A. U. White, and three-year-old Jeanette, R.R. No. 3, Victoria; and Mrs. Audrey G. Sands, wife of Pte. V. T. Sands, 775 Hampshire Road, Victoria.

Building permits have been issued to D. W. Barr to build a four-room house at 2825 5th Street, $44,500; to the Pro Patria Branch of the Legion to alter clubrooms at 625 Courtney Street, $3,500; to H. W. W. Lock to build a four-room house at 1209 Pembroke Street, $4,800; to C. J. Moscrip to add a suite to 1453 Denman Street, $2,000; and to Charles Walker to build a four-room house at 1556 Westall Avenue, $4,500.

Governor Presents Medal For Service To Victoria Woman

At an informal ceremony at Government House Monday afternoon, Lieutenant-Governor Charles A. Banks presented Mrs. Lewis M. Buckle, 1241 Monterey Avenue, with the King's Medal for "outstanding service in the cause of freedom during world war two."

Mrs. Buckle is one of a small group of women, heads of working units for British Relief in the United States during the war, who have been so honored by the King.

A Canadian, born in Lachine, Que., Mrs. Buckle married an Englishman and went to live in the town of Bonton, N.J., many years ago. It was in Bonton that she formed and headed her war service group.

"I really did nothing more than any one of the other women in the group," she said this morning. "They were all wonderful workers. I just happened to be head of the unit, that's all."

Mrs. Banks, attended by Miss Ruth MacLean, was present at the investiture. Mrs. Buckle was accompanied by her husband and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Douglas Buckle.

Mr. and Mrs. Buckle came to Victoria in August and expect to make their home here. Their daughter-in-law is staying with them while awaiting passage to China to join her husband, who is stationed at Tientsin.

No Developments In Coast Murder

Headquarters here of the B.C. police reported this morning no developments were expected until late today or tomorrow in the murder last week-end of Mrs. Beatrice Smith at a small logging camp at Belize Inlet on the mainland about 50 miles north of Alert Bay.

Mrs. Smith's badly battered body was found in her bed Sunday morning at the 12-man logging camp where she had been employed as a cook for the last five years.

The woman was believed to have been beaten to death with a wooden instrument. The murder was believed to have taken place between 11.30 Saturday night and 9 Sunday morning.

Mrs. Smith, who was about 40 years old, was said to have been estranged from her husband.

Cpl. W. H. Davidson and Constable G. Pearson of the Alert Bay detachment of the B.C. police are investigating. Mrs. Smith's body has been taken to Alert Bay for an autopsy.

Eustace Mitchell Dies

Eustace John Norton Mitchell, 65, well-known Victorian, passed away at Royal Jubilee Hospital Monday following a brief illness. Funeral service will be held in Christ Church Cathedral Wednesday afternoon, Dean Spencer H. Elliott officiating. Interment will take place at Royal Oak.

Mr. Mitchell was associated with the Royal Trust Company for many years and at the time of his retirement in February was secretary of the company.

Born in London, Eng., Mr. Mitchell came to Canada in 1912 and married Florence Marion Knox in 1913. He is survived by his widow and two daughters, Jean at the family residence, 3020 Foul Bay Road, and Mrs. T. H. Woolson, 2989 Foul Bay Road. Mr. Mitchell's only son, Peter, twin of Jean, predeceased him on November 11, 1945. Two brothers reside in England.

Dockyard Civil Servants' Association, meeting at the Y.M.C.A. Monday evening, made preliminary arrangements for a social and supper dance. Resolutions passed will come before the zone council at its meeting in the Post Office Building next Tuesday.

Prewar Real Estate Prices Not Expected To Return Here

Victoria real estate men, despite the fact they are experiencing a lull in the heavy buying of houses and land which has taken place here for some time past, today expressed confidence property prices would not return to those of prewar.

Maj. H. C. Holmes, president of Pemberton, Holmes Ltd., said it was difficult to say what would happen. If there was a continuance of strikes and wage increases he believed prices of property would go up. But, he continued, if a buyers' strike occurred in the real estate field, then prices would go down. Now is not a normal period, he observed. "The cat may jump either way."

However, he believed prices would remain higher than prewar for five years or more and as long as the demand and the scarcity remained. Prewar prices, he said, were too low and were bad for the country.

Col. J. D. O'Toole, manager of the real estate department of P. R. Brown and Sons, said he believed the local situation to be definitely influenced by the tremendous shortage of building materials and that until the shortages ceased the situation would remain much the same.

Because of the high replacement value at the present represented in real estate, he found it difficult to estimate when prices might level off. He did, however, estimate they might eventually level off at 20 per cent less than present prices. He, too, said he felt prewar prices were too low.

OUTSIDE INQUIRIES

His office has had numerous inquiries from U.S. buyers in New York who wished to buy real estate and live here and he felt that this would tend to help keep prices above those of prewar.

The only exception in the field of house prices he believed lay among the older houses—those built before 1930—and in these he anticipated a bigger drop in price.

Milton H. King of King Realty, said prices were definitely up and his opinion, he felt those prices would be maintained for some time and foresaw little difference in the prices until shortages in building materials were lessened.

BUYERS' STRIKE POSSIBLE

However, Mr. King suggested the possibility of something akin to a buyers' strike. People would not pay ridiculously high prices, he said. They would make do with what they had and wait until the prices were a little lower.

Lt.-Col. Brooke Stephenson of Ker and Stephenson Ltd., refused to classify the large scale buying as a boom. It was nothing like the buying in 1913, he said.

He anticipated a continued demand for some time and until needs were met. People at present were not buying as much, he said, but the prices were remaining steady and would remain steady as long as people wanted to buy.

Dominion May Undertake Probe Of Mine Taxes, Says MacDonald

Provincial Mines Minister R. C. MacDonald, back in Victoria today from a conference of Dominion and provincial mines ministers in Ottawa, said Hon. J. A. Glen, federal minister of mines and resources, would probably put before the Dominion cabinet a proposal that the question of taxing mining properties be the topic of a fact-finding commission probe.

"It was felt that this suggestion was received favorably by the minister, who intimated that he would refer it to his other colleagues with the object of meeting our request," said Mr. MacDonald.

Mr. MacDonald said the present excess profits tax as it applies to mining was not an excess profits tax but straight confiscation.

He said that the only way in which a fair excess profits tax could be levied on the mining industry in time of emergency was to take the profit per pound of base metal, or ounce of precious metal or ton of industrial metal, for the base period, and then charge an excess profits tax against any profit per unit of metal over and above that of the base period.

"Such a scheme would have allowed increased production of wasting assets without confiscating all of the profits, which profit, in part, represents the return of capital to the investor," he said.

Because the Dominion government has invaded the income tax field, it should assume its share of responsibility for road and trail building to mines, the conference felt.

Mr. MacDonald said that from 1936 to 1940 the Dominion government had spent $928,227 on mining roads and trails in B.C., and from 1943 to 1945 the Dominion government had taxed the province's mining industry a total of $15,066,937.

SHOULD DO SURVEYS

The conference also stressed that the Dominion government should be responsible for high altitude aerial photography, basic topographical mapping and basic geological mapping.

Mr. MacDonald said the R.C.A.F. was the only organization with adequate planes and photographic equipment for doing the work; aerial photography was necessary for defence as well as development of natural resources; the taxpayer was paying for the maintenance of the air force which might as well do useful peacetime work for development of the country as well as for its defence; basic topography mapping was necessary for defence and should be available for development work, and basic geological mapping should be done by a central organization to insure uniformity of work and only the Dominion government could maintain such an organization.

Mr. MacDonald said the Dominion government should increase the geological staff of the survey to not less than 100 geologists, and at least 13 parties should be placed in B.C.

It was also suggested by the conference that there should be co-ordination within a province of research activities of universities, government and industry.

"This, to a large extent, has been done in British Columbia through the establishment of the B.C. Research Council," he said.

MORE GRANTS NEEDED

The conference also felt that more liberal grants should be made to universities and provincial research institutions and that private donations to such institutions should be encouraged by removal of taxation and all present restrictions on such gifts.

Mr. MacDonald said that at present manufacturers of coal-mining equipment must send any piece of equipment of any design either to the U.S. or to England for approval before it can be used in a coal mine.

"It is believed that if such equipment can be tested and approved by Canadian Standards Association, more coal-mining equipment would be manufactured in Canada," he said.

Lumber Company Ltd. He is also charged with retaining the logs in his possession.

Mr. Justice A. D. Macfarlane gave permission to the Crown to admit Graham's former testimony.

The case is continuing. A verdict is expected late today.

First Blue Baby Donates To Fund

First contributors to the fund now being raised by the Victoria Lions Club for "Janet No. 2," was Janet No. 1, the first blue baby to be cured of a similar heart ailment, and her grandfather.

At the request of the parents of Janet No. 1, approximately $1,200, the balance of the fund raised during the drive to aid the first blue baby, will serve as a nucleus for the campaign now under way, said John B. Priestley, president of the club.

E. A. Estlin, chairman of the Janet Fund Committee, said an extensive campaign will be launched. He added that all expenses for the campaign will come out of the pockets of the members.

Ex-Police Chief John Fry Dead

LATE JOHN FRY

John Fry, chief of police in Victoria between 1921 and 1931, died Monday at his residence, 219 Superior Street, after a short illness. He was 75 years old.

He is survived by his wife, Rose, and a brother, Eli, in Victoria; a daughter, Mrs. G. Kairser, Saanich, and two grandchildren.

Private funeral services will be conducted at Hayward's B.C. Funeral Company on Thursday and burial will be in the family plot at Ross Bay Cemetery.

Mr. Fry was born at Wincanton, Somersetshire, England, and came to Victoria as a member of the Royal Marine Artillery. He joined the artillery at the age of 18 and served with the Royal Marines for five and a half years. While with the regiment here he assisted in the mounting of the six-inch coast defence guns at Macaulay Point.

In 1901 he joined the 2nd C.M.R.'s and went to South Africa where he won the King's Medal. After returning to Victoria he joined the city police force in 1903. He was promoted to sergeant in 1914.

Elk Lake Water System Surveyed

A survey of the Elk Lake water system by G. M. Irwin, city water commissioner, shows that with some improvements it could deliver 1,250,000 gallons of water daily. Ald. J. A. Worthington, chairman of the water board, said today. At the present time it is producing 970,000 gallons daily.

This survey, Ald. Worthington said, was conducted to help Saanich judge what expenditures would be necessary for water mains if the municipality agrees to take over the system as offered by the city.

Mr. Irwin pointed out, in his report, that each of the two pumps was designed to operate singly with a capacity of 792,000 gallons per day. He reported the filtration beds have a normal rating of 864,000 gallons daily but would take a 50 per cent overload.

Western Air Command, in a recent letter gave assurance that if the 15-year period was too short for a lease that they would recommend that an option for extension be included in the agreement.

Nonagenarian Dies

A nonagenarian, Mrs. Emma Shilcock, 93, passed away at a family residence, 2955 Albion Street, Monday evening. A native of Leicestershire, Eng., she had been a resident of this city for 17 years. She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. W. Gilbert, with whom she resided, and one son, John Edwin of New Jersey, N.Y.

Wage Boosts Approved For Auto Workers Here

The Regional War Labor Board has approved new wage rates for automotive workers in Victoria with increases ranging from 7 1/2 to 12 cents an hour. G. A. Wilkinson, business agent for the Automotive Maintenance Workers' Union (A.F.L.), said today.

Basic rates have been established for all classifications of employees and vary according to length of service and experience. Journeymen in the trade now will receive $1 per hour or if paid at authorized piece work rates the minimum of $1 an hour must be guaranteed.

Other classes of workers will be paid at the following rates: Mechanics' helpers, 60 to 87 cents per hour; lubricationmen, 60 to 80 cents; service salesmen, $35 to $45 per week; washers, 60 to 70 cents per hour; janitors, 60 cents per hour; service station attendants, 60 to 80 cents per hour, and parts men, $20 to $40 per week.

Dr. A. J. Phillips is conferring with a group of Victoria teachers today in connection with his survey on absenteeism in schools. It was learned at the school board office today.

Molotov Plans New Stand For Slavs At Trieste

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
NEW YORK (AP)—The Big Four Foreign Ministers moved through their second day's work on the eastern European peace treaties amid mounting evidence that Foreign Minister Molotov of Russia will stage a last-ditch fight to gain special advantages for Yugoslavia at the Adriatic port of Trieste.

The U.N. Assembly appeared to be headed for a wide open fight over selection of a permanent home. One report was that the Russians might reverse their former stand against a site in western Europe to favor Geneva, old League of Nations headquarters, as a home.

A formal 51-country debate was assured on proposals to take United Nations action against the Franco regime in Spain when the Security Council Monday dropped the Spanish issue from its agenda so the Assembly might act.

BASIC QUESTIONS

While the United Nations continued a heavy schedule of committee work at Lake Success, N.Y., the Foreign Ministers of Britain, Russia, the United States and France, meeting in a Manhattan hotel, came to grips with the basic issues of making peace in Europe. Their second session was scheduled late this afternoon.

Mr. Molotov, State Secretary Byrnes and Foreign Secretary Bevin met at Monday's opening session.

Initial routines were quickly dispensed with. The Big Four decided to take up the Italian peace treaty first and then, in order, the treaties with Romania, Bulgaria, Hungary and Finland. Discussion hardly had begun on the Italian treaty Monday when the Trieste issue was raised, emphasizing the split between Russia and the western powers.

The Foreign Ministers agreed to hear arguments from Yugoslavia and Italy over the kind of United Nations government that should be set up over the strategic port city.

IN MEMORIAM

KIRK—In loving memory of the late

John Kirk, dearly beloved wife, mother and family, died Nov. 5, 1918.

Sometimes between lone shadows on the grass

The faint waves of sunlight pass;

My eyes grow dim with tenderness the while

Thinking I see thee smile!

And sometimes in the twilight gloom,

The fall tears whisper, whisper heart to heart;

From my fond lips the eager answers fall,

Thinking I hear thee call!

—Ever remembered by her loving husband, son John Kirk and family, and daughter, Linda and family.

McQUARRIE—In loving memory of our daughter and sister, Margaret Mc-

Quarrie, who passed away Nov. 5,

1917.

'The Plainsman' Held At Dominion

A colorful period in history, the decade which witnessed the opening of the west, is brought to vibrant life again by the magic of Cecil B. DeMille in the revival of "The Plainsman," now being shown at the Dominion Theatre.

"The Plainsman" deals with the 10 years which followed the U.S. Civil War and tells of the epic struggle and heroism of the frontier people. A tender love story built around the famous frontier characters, "Wild Bill" Hickok and "Calamity Jane," played by Garry Cooper and beautiful Jean Arthur, furnishes the romance.

PLAZA, OAK BAY THEATRES

While filming their current laugh hit, "A Night in Casablanca," the zany Marx Brothers coined a new glossary of identifications for co-workers and props.

To them the earphone equipped sound men were "The Gestapo." Stand-ins were "replacement troops." The casting office was the "redistribution centre." The daily "rushes" were "Crosby nags" to Groucho. As he said: "They always come in late."

Zealous makeup artists were "bobby-soxers" because they were always sideling at a Marx elbow. Prop men and set dressers, who got in the Marxes' hair by moving furniture out from under them, were "storm troopers."

But don't get us wrong—the Mad Marxes love everybody. "A Night in Casablanca" was produced by David L. Loew in collaboration with the Marxes. It is a United Artists release and can be caught now at the Plaza and Oak Bay Theatres.

ROYAL THEATRE

Director Mitchell Leisen searched high and low for the right actress to play the featured role of Belle Ingham in Paramount's "To Each His Own," which is now at the Royal Theatre with Olivia DeHavilland starred. But it turned out to be a case of not being able to see the trees because of the forest.

After unsuccessfully interviewing numerous top players concerning the part, that of a friendly, talkative mother of three, Leisen drafted Alma Macrorie for the role, despite the fact that she had never acted in her life. What makes the casting even more unusual is that Miss Macrorie is film editor of the picture, having served in that capacity for Leisen for the past three years.

The director's choice of Miss Macrorie proved an excellent one since critics agree that she more than holds her own in the company of her experienced colleagues, Mary Anderson, Philip Terry, Roland Culver and Bill Goodwin, among others.

ADOPT LARGER GOLF BALL IN CANADA

TORONTO (CP) — President J. A. Fuller announced Monday after a week-end meeting of the executive of the Royal Canadian Golf Association that the American-sized golf ball will be officially adopted for Canadian golf in 1948. During 1947 either the smaller Canadian ball or the United States ball may be used.

Fuller said this action was taken at the request of both clubs and individual golfers. The United States ball has a diameter of 1.68 inches and weighs 1.68 ounces. The smaller ball has a diameter of 1.62 inches and weighs 1.62 ounces.

The executive also discussed the revised U.S. rules and decided these should be studied by its rules committee before any action is taken.

Gordon Warns Of Rapid Increase In Food Prices If Controls End

OTTAWA (CP) — Chairman Donald Gordon of the Prices Board warned Monday night immediate decontrol of all food prices would mean a "rapid" price increase in most of the basic foods served on Canadian dinner tables.

Mr. Gordon dealt with price control as it relates to Canada's "bread and butter," in the second broadcast of a series of five.

"How long the boom would last no one can say with certainty, but it can pretty definitely be said that such a boom would, in due course, be followed by a serious collapse."

"The Canadian policy is so to administer our affairs that we will have a planned and orderly readjustment to the conditions of our postwar world. If successful, this country should avoid the headaches which go with the boom and depression kind of readjustments."

ENDING OF SUBSIDIES

"Mind you, this doesn't mean that we won't have controlled price adjustments from time to time as we get on with the job of cutting out subsidies and freeing trade from wartime restrictions. But . . . the effort will be to prevent disorderly conditions in our domestic markets and not to follow the excesses of other countries."

"Stable prices are much more in the best interests of our producers and consumers alike than are rapidly rising and falling prices with all the uncertainties and speculation which go with them."

Mr. Gordon reiterated that the prices board was committed to remove all war-created controls as soon as the conditions which gave them birth had passed.

CAPITOL THEATRE

As gay as a pixie sliding down a moonbeam and as heartwarming as the smile of its little leading lady, Margaret O'Brien, is "Three Wise Fools," delightful story of a little girl who brings sunshine into the lives of three frosty old bachelors. Sharing top honors in the new M-G-M hit, now on the Capitol screen, are Lionel Barrymore, Lewis Stone, Edward Arnold and Thomas Mitchell.

Little Margaret O'Brien comes to the new role from her recent successes in "Bad Bascomb" and "Our Vines Have Tender Grapes." As Sheila O'Monahan she has her first opportunity to play a role in keeping with her Irish heritage.

SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS OF BANKING

From the days of the Little Red Schoolhouse to the present age of scientifically planned and equipped school buildings, The Dominion Bank has been promoting progress. With 75 years of such participation in community betterment behind it, this Bank looks to the future with continued faith and optimism.

Schools for TOMORROW!

Tomorrow's schools will employ new facilities for enhancing the child's health and happiness.

With windows above the roof of the corridors, the classrooms will be flooded with light from both sides, fostering good eyesight and encouraging cheerfulness.

Seating arrangement will be flexible. Movable desks and chairs will make it easy to group the pupils, according to need, for greater convenience, comfort and interest.

Radio receivers with built-in loudspeakers will enable the teacher to make full use of educational broadcasts.

Such things, combined with new materials, modern heating and ventilation, plenty of window space, will conduce to "sound minds in sound bodies" in Canada's Schools of Tomorrow. Enterprise will produce them. This Bank will provide enterprise with the resources needed to translate plans into practise.
